MAYOR ACTS ... Emergency Declared In Las Vegas

Las Vegas, Nev. (AP) — Mayor Oran Gragson declared a state of emergency and asked that National Guard troops be assembled at their armories Monday night as roving bands of young blacks rampaged through the city's predominantly Negro west side.

Gragson also clamped a 7 p.m. curfew on the strife-torn area, which by dusk encompassed 40 city blocks.

The section is a mile from the city's downtown area and two miles from the Las Vegas Strip.

Tear Gas Used
Some 150 helmeted police officers and sheriff's deputies battled the youths into the night in an effort to confine and ultimately control the violence. Tear gas was used widely, but with little apparent effect.

The youths overturned cars and set them afire, sporadic gunfire was reported, and reports of firebombings and looting were widespread.

At least four persons were taken to area hospitals, one reportedly suffering from a gunshot wound.

The difficulty began late in the afternoon at a west side shopping center when gangs of young blacks began hurling rocks through store windows. Sporadic looting followed.

Second Night
It was the second straight night of racial violence in the neighborhood.

The incidents Sunday night were triggered when two Negro police officers stopped a black taxi driver for a routine traffic check, officers said. Before the night was out, 17 persons had been arrested and one person hospitalized.

Sporadic fighting erupted earlier Monday between white and black pupils at Valley High School, but sheriff's deputies said those outbursts resulted in no arrest or injuries.

Mansfield Says His Health Okay

Washington (AP) — Senate majority leader Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., said Monday he was "feeling fine" after his checkup at the Bethesda, Md., Naval Medical Center. He returned to work last Thursday after six days of checkups.

"All the tests were negative, and that always makes you feel good," he said.

NFO Chief Burrows Files For Congress

The Nebraska vice president of the National Farmers Organization Monday became the first candidate for the 1970 congressional races.

George W. (Bill) Burrows, who farms near Adams, said he had no formal campaign organization but hoped to fashion one out of farmers, independent businessmen, Social Security recipients and "laboring people," as distinguished from labor unions.

Burrows, 38, said he decided to run as a Democrat in opposition to incumbent First District Rep. Robert Denney of Fairbury because he didn't think Denney had "spoken out on the issues of financial and corporate power groups."

He said he referred to such power concentrations as the auto industry and huge trusts and foundations "that in many cases completely escape income taxes."

Tax-free municipal bonds, he said, are one of the devices the wealthy use to escape paying taxes "and I think they should pay their share of income taxes."

Statisticians have said, according to Burrows, that the farm dollar turns over 6.68 times in Nebraska's economy.

"I would like to tie in the benefits the independent businessmen will have from agriculture being put on a paying basis in the state," he said.

"I'm not an isolationist," Burrows said. "But I don't think we can run protected segments of labor and industry and dump agriculture on a world market."

Other segments of the economy are based on the theory of "controlled abundance," he said, and the same should apply to agriculture.

"Supply and demand? The farmers have supplied and failed to demand a price," he said.

Haddon Notes Repair Costs

... SAYS ANSWER SIMPLE

Washington (AP) — American motorists are spending billions of dollars a year needlessly because their automobiles are too delicate to withstand minor collisions, Senate investigators were told Monday.

"The answer is simply to make vehicles less delicate to these low-speed crashes and the fact is that it is practical and can be achieved and it's time everyone understood this," said Dr. William Haddon Jr.

'Butcher Cleaver'
Haddon, former director of the Transportation Department's Bureau of Highway Safety, singled out for particular blame ineffective bumpers and such accessories as hideaway headlights. Haddon said the latter not only are costly to repair but have a "butcher cleaver" construction that causes many pedestrian injuries.

Haddon, who now heads the private Insurance Institute for Highway Safety, testified as the Senate antitrust and monopoly subcommittee reopened hearings on the cost of auto repairs. It seeks an answer to the auto owner's perennial question: Am I getting good repairs at a fair price.

Earlier sessions last year and in April this year produced sensational testimony of poor workmanship, padded bills and charges that auto firms purposely designed their products so that repair costs would be high.

1-66% Adequacy
Subcommittee Chairman Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., said at the outset of the new hearings that studies on the adequacy of repairs "range from a low of only one per cent being done satisfactorily to a high of 66%."

"Accepting the highest figure," said Hart, "we have one-third of all repairs being unsatisfactory. The loss to consumer runs into the billions, without giving a dollar amount to the frustration and inconvenience."

Saying that the subcommittee had been told 50% of all autos have defects, Hart suggested licensing of auto repair facilities and a national system of licensing mechanics.

Parts Prices Up
Hart said also there has been a 64% rise in the price of auto parts over the past decade and the subcommittee will try to find out what caused it.

Haddon showed the subcommittee a film of some tests recently done for the Insurance Institute in California in which four standard, popular auto models were driven into a concrete wall at speeds of 5 and 10 miles per hour.

At the lower speed, estimates for repairs ranged from $135 to $305 in front end crashes and $134 to $325 for rear-end crashes.

At 10 miles per hour damage in front end crashes ranged from $485 to $814.

Small Claims Abundant
Haddon testified also that minor auto accidents involving claims of $500 or less account for 94% of all auto insurance claims.

The subcommittee was shown another film of an auto equipped with a bumper designed to prevent all damage in accidents up to 30 miles per hour.

The bumper consisted of shock absorbers mounted in an "M" design between the frame and the standard bumper.

Liberal-Oriented New Party Does Not Plan To Regroup

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

The liberal-oriented New Party, which offered a congressional alternative to First District voters in 1968, does not plan to regroup for a crack at the 1970 ballot.

"I think it would be almost impossible," Phillip Scribner, chairman of the defunct party, said Monday.

The party — which was organized within the First District only — lost its official recognition as a political party when its congressional nominee failed to garner at least 5% of the total vote in 1968.

More Stringent
Since then, the 1969 Legislature has enacted a new law changing the requirements for formation of new parties. They are considerably more stringent.

Whereas the old law authorized formation of a statewide party with 750 signatures gathered at an organizational convention, the new statute would require 4,862 signatures on petitions from at least 19 counties in order to qualify for the 1970 election.

A congressional district party could be formed in 1968 with 250 signatures gathered at a convention; now it would need roughly seven times that many names on petitions.

Almost Impossible

"There's not much point in trying that," Scribner said. "I think it's almost impossible to

Coloradoan Shot Twice; Suspect Held

A 37-year-old Colorado man was reported in "fair" condition early Monday evening following emergency surgery for gunshot wounds suffered in an argument earlier in the day at a Lincoln residence.

Lancaster County Attorney Paul Douglas identified the man as Richard Nuss of Aurora, Colo.

Douglas said the shooting occurred at the home of John F. Kruger, 33, 745 Rose, Lincoln police were holding Kruger for questioning in the shooting.

Police said Nuss who was unarmed at the time of the incident, was struck by two bullets from a .38 caliber revolver.

Nuss was being treated at St. Elizabeth Health Center.

do now, and I think that's the purpose."

Nebraska experienced a proliferation of parties in 1968.

George Wallace's American Party was organized statewide in Nebraska — and is still a valid and officially recognized third party in the state — and the radical-left Peace and Freedom Party attempted to organize in Omaha.

Scribner said the issues which the New Party raised last year "should be presented again," but perhaps in a different form.

Several Issues
Issues of major concern to the party were the war in Vietnam, racism and poverty.

Supporters of the party are now working on the Oct. 15 national moratorium designed to once again turn the spotlight on anti-war sentiment.

As for his own political activities, Scribner said: "I was a Democrat before, and I suppose I'll go back and try to raise the issues there."

'Very Marginal'
The successes of a liberal alternative in Nebraska in 1968 were "very marginal," Scribner noted. "We may not see another effort here for a long time."

State Planning, Programming Office Sets Up Shop; Recruiting First Task

By VIRGIL FALLOON
Star Staff Writer

The newly-created State Office of Planning and Programming has set up shop, but just barely.

State Planning Director Douglas Bereuter said Monday the recruiting of a staff will be first priority before his office becomes fully functional in its assigned duties and responsibilities.

Its far-reaching task, assigned by the 1969 Legislature in LB1398, is to "act as directing, advisory, consulting and coordinating agency to harmonize planning and programming activities at all levels of government within Nebraska."

Was Coordinator
Gov. Norbert T. Tiemann named Bereuter to the post from his former quasi-official position of state planning coordinator.

During the coming months, Bereuter said he plans to name "coordinators" for natural resources, transportation, urban affairs, manpower development and poverty programs, and education and general government.

"We'll move as fast as possible," he added, "but slow enough to be sure we find the right people for these jobs."

General Planning
Meanwhile, he said the Office of Highway Safety and the Office of Comprehensive Health Planning has been delegated the general planning and administrative responsibilities in their respective areas.

Mrs. Calista Cooper Hughes, state health planning director, will additionally serve as "coordinator" for social services.

One of the more immediate responsibilities of the planning office under the governor is the review of all applications for federal grants and funds coming from state or local governmental agencies.

150 Categories
Among the 150 federal grant categories designated by the Bureau of the Budget are airport and transportation planning funds, "open space," solid waste disposal, law enforcement, Hill-Burton hospital and medical facilities money, and vocational rehabilitation facilities.

"Unless the grant applications are reviewed by the state planning office, they will be returned by the budget bureau," he explained.

Among the planning office's other tasks is the monitoring of all plans of state agencies to assure coordination between state agencies and avoid duplication or overlap of planning effort and expenditures.

Must Conform

Under state legislation as well as federal guidelines, future planning and administrative efforts of state agencies on a regional basis must conform to the one or more 26 multiple-county, socio-economic planning regions designated for Nebraska.

Bereuter also said his office will be working on a detailed plan for "state regional office complexes" in the state's seven major urban areas.

The detailed study, pursuant to a Legislative resolution, will pinpoint sites and development plans for the regional offices in these urban areas: Omaha, North Platte, Scottsbluff-Gering, Kearney-Hastings-Grand Island, McCook, Ainsworth and Norfolk.

South Vietnam Is Willing To Negotiate Cease-Fire

— The New York Times

Saigon — President Nguyen Van Thieu declared Monday that South Vietnam was willing to negotiate a cease-fire, "with conditions," at the Paris peace talks.

Addressing a joint session of the national assembly, Thieu said: "Today we repeat the same calls for peace and the peace offers we have made on previous occasions."

"And today I declare that we are ready to discuss anything with the other side, including a cease-fire. But it must be discussed and agreed upon before it goes into effect, because we cannot let the Communists take advantage of a cease-fire."

Not Specific
The president did not specify what conditions South Vietnam would require before it would agree to a cease-fire. It was, however, the first time he had formally offered to negotiate the question with the other side.

The cease-fire offer by Thieu represents a significant shift in his public attitude.

In previous speeches he has all but ruled out a cease-fire, arguing that the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese would exploit any halt in the fighting in order to improve their position on the battlefield.

During a television appearance Sept. 19, for example appearance that any cease-fire would be impracticable unless it were accompanied by an over-all settlement of the war.

Thieu repeated this sentiment in part Monday when he said South Vietnam could not agree to "an unconditional cease-fire" before "we discuss the modalities with the other side."

The president repeated the previous offers he has made — direct negotiations with the Viet Cong, and guaranteed and internationally supervised elections in which the Viet Cong's National Liberation Front would be permitted to participate.

"It is time for the other side to respond," he said, "or they will have to assume the responsibility for the continuing suffering of the people of both South Vietnam and North Vietnam."

In an apparent reference to the criticism that has been leveled against his government by Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., and other congressmen, Thieu said:

"I totally reject the erroneous views of any persons from anywhere saying that the government of South Vietnam is the major obstacle to peace in Vietnam."

How To Change A Judge's Mind

The young man appearing before Municipal Judge Thomas J. McManus had just been told the judge would wait for a pre-sentence investigation before setting the penalties on charges of use of obscene and indecent language and disorderly conduct.

Then the court attendant who had been escorting the defendant from the room was back at the judge's bench, and the judge called the defendant back.

"What did you just say to the bailiff?" asked McManus. And, after an answer not heard by spectators: "I want you to repeat all that you just said."

Then the judge asked for the defendant's papers back again, wrote furiously on them for a full minute, and announced the defendant had been fined $25 on each of the two charges but also sentenced to five days for contempt of court.

"One thing I won't tolerate," said Judge McManus, "is disrespect for this court."

Communist Instructor Draws 2,000 At UCLA

Los Angeles (AP) — A comely young Communist, focal point of a bitter fight between University of California regents and faculty, lectured on philosophy Monday to a turnaway crowd of 1,900. Students gave her a standing ovation and demanded credit for her course.

Angela Davis, 25, wore a bright pink miniskirt and African natural hairdo for her first talk on "Recurring Philosophical Themes in Black Literature" at the University of California at Los Angeles.

She spoke for more than an hour, then answered questions. She quoted Karl Marx, existentialist Jean Paul Sartre and Marxist philosopher Herbert Marcuse and gave her own opinions on freedom and social measures. She said nothing in overt support of communism.

One hundred and 69 students had registered for the course. It was moved Monday from a 300-seat hall to 1,900-seat Royce Hall.

UCLA has a student enrollment of 27,500. About 100 students were refused admittance to the lecture because of fire regulations.

The regents fired Miss Davis last month after she said she belonged to a Communist club. They invoked a rule banning Communist teachers. A committee UCLA's academic senate demanded that she be permitted to teach, and that the course be for credit. The regents ruled last Friday that she could teach — but not for credit — until the matter is settled. It is expected to wind up in court.

Miss Davis, bespectacled and articulate, said at one point: "I don't think we ought to allow the regents to interfere in the intellectual process . . . You students ought to decide (on whether she ought to teach). Anyone who objects, I'd like you to stand up now."

No one stood up. "I interpret your silence as tacit agreement," she said.

The theme of her lecture was freedom. "Is not the essence of human beings freedom?" she asked. She spoke of the life and times of American Negro slaves Frederick Douglass and Nat Turner, saying slavery destroyed the Negroes' sense of self-identity — "the most extreme form of human alienation was the reduction of a man to the state of property."

"The history of black literature," she said, "provides a much more illuminating look at the concept of freedom than philosophical discourse in Western society. The pivotal theme of this course will be freedom as it has unfolded in the literary enterprise of the black people."

Unemployed Ranks Grow

Washington (AP) — The nation's unemployment rate experienced last month its biggest increase since the Eisenhower administration, promising to ignite a fresh dispute over President Nixon's course in combating inflation.

The ranks of the unemployed swelled to four per cent of the civilian work force, a one-half per cent increase over the August rate. The Labor Department said Monday it was the greatest monthly increase since September-October 1960.

Employment levels, however, remained virtually unchanged at their peak, reflecting a decline in the rate of employment growth.

Of the nation's labor force of 81.4 million, the Bureau of Labor Statistics said, 3 million were unemployed in September — 365,000 more than in August. The over-all unemployment rate was the highest since the 4.2% of October 1967.

The figure prompted former vice president Hubert H. Humphrey, speaking at an AFL-CIO convention, to assert that Nixon's economic policies are putting Americans out of work without slowing inflation. Humphrey said Nixon's policy of tight money and high interest is benefiting the wealthy at the expense of the rest of the nation.

But a high Treasury Department official saw the new jobless figures in a rosier light. Asst. Secretary Murray L. Weidenbaum said they "indicate that we may be returning from an overheated, overemployed condition to more sustainable employment levels."

Weidenbaum noted that the four per cent rate is approximately that which prevailed just prior to expansion of U.S. involvement in Vietnam.

It's Proof, Says Meany

Atlantic City, N. J. (AP) — AFL-CIO President George Meany said Monday the sharp rise in the nation's unemployment rate proved the labor federation's charge that President Nixon is sacrificing workers to fight inflation.

Egyptian Jets Raid Israelis

By The Associated Press

Egyptian warplanes raided Israeli positions along the Suez Canal Monday, touching off air battles in which five planes were claimed downed.

Israeli military headquarters in Tel Aviv said Israeli jets and missile men downed three Egyptian MIGs.

An Egyptian military spokesman said MIG 21 fighters fought a "great aerial battle" with the Israeli jets, shooting two down for the loss of one MIG whose pilot ejected safely.

He said Egyptian bombers and fighters strafed Israeli positions, radar units and Hawk antiaircraft missile batteries along the entire Suez Canal. The air battle started when the Egyptian planes were on the way home, but all the bombers got back safely, he said.

Israeli officers said more than 20 Egyptian planes streaked across the northern, central and southern sectors of the 103-mile canal to attack Israeli military targets.

The raid lasted a few minutes, a spokesman reported, and there were no Israeli casualties.

Israeli jets scrambled and brought down two Russian-made MIG21s in dogfights over the waterway, according to Israeli headquarters. The MIG pilots were said to have parachuted over Egyptian territory.

A third Egyptian plane, a MIG17, was blasted out of the skies by an American-made Hawk ground to air missile, the Israelis said.

Said Unscathed

Radio Cairo said, meantime, that Egyptian anti-aircraft gunners thwarted an Israeli air strike south of the Great Bitter Lake and Shaloufa on the canal's southern sector. The Egyptian military command said the Israeli planes were forced to flee and Egyptian positions were unscathed, according to the broadcast.

The renewed aerial attacks came against a background of intensified artillery duels across the canal.

The Jordanian government announced it had foiled a plot by the illegal Liberation Party against the "security of the kingdom."

It was not clear whether the plot was aimed at overthrowing King Hussein's government. The government said the plot was discovered Friday but that arrests had been made as long as five months earlier. The Liberation Party, founded 15 years ago, is banned throughout the Arab Middle East because it considers existing Arab governments null and void and advocates establishment of Arab states on the basis of the Koran.

War Appears To Slip Back To Lower Level

Saigon (AP) — After a weekend of slightly stepped up activity, the Vietnam war appeared early Tuesday to have slipped back to the relative low level of the past month.

U.S. headquarters said its initial reports listed 14 enemy shellings overnight, five of them considered significant.

One was against the headquarters base of the U.S. 25th Infantry Division's 1st Brigade 56 miles northwest of Saigon, but the light mortar barrage there caused no casualties or damage, spokesmen said.

South Vietnamese headquarters reported two shellings against major towns. One was at Phan Thiet, 94 miles east of Saigon, where four mortar rounds were reported to have killed two civilians and wounded five.

The other was against the Mekong Delta center of Can Tho, where two rounds of 75mm recoilless rifle fire were reported to have killed two civilians and wounded 13.

In scattered ground fighting, soldiers of the U.S. 4th Infantry Division killed 19 enemy with the help of helicopter gunships in a clash 278 miles northeast of Saigon, headquarters said. No U.S. casualties were reported.

Eighty miles north of the capital, helicopter gunships of the 1st Air Cavalry Division killed seven enemy with no American casualties, spokesmen said. Other gunships of the 1st Infantry Division killed five more enemy with no losses of their own in an area 33 miles northwest of Saigon, spokesmen said.

U.S. Air Force B52 bombers flew five more missions overnight, hitting in areas from 70 miles northwest to 111 miles northeast of Saigon.

General Profited On Guns

Washington (AP) — Several of hundreds of guns obtained from the Army and two big city police forces by the Army's provost marshal general were later seized by U.S. agents in a 5-ton cache of arms destined for rebels in Haiti, a Senate investigator testified Monday.

Gen. Carl C. Turner used his general's uniform to obtain more than 700 weapons, then sold many of them for private profit, the investigator said.

The investigator, Philip R. Manuel of the Senate's investigations subcommittee, said he had no evidence Turner knew that guns he sold to the Pine State Gun Shop of Fayetteville, N.C., were to be included in shipments to revolutionaries.

He said about 500 of the more than 700 weapons Turner obtained from the police departments of Chicago and Kansas City and from Ft. Bliss, Tex., cannot be accounted for.

Manuel said Turner first asked for guns from the Chicago police department at a time when he was in the city as liaison officer for the Army chief of staff during the assassination of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. in April 1968.

Lt. Paul Duelman, custodian of confiscated property for the Chicago Police Department, said Turner selected personally a total of nearly 400 pistols, rifles and shotguns during four visits in 1968.

Manuel said the last visit was two weeks after the general retired from the Army.

He said he was told by the Kansas City police department Turner was given 96 confiscated weapons on five occasions and that the Kansas City chief of police, Clarence Kelley, approved the release of these weapons to Gen. Turner because of Gen. Turner's interest in firearms both as a collector and a lecturer on firearms.

Duelman said weapons turned over to Turner in Chicago were a run-of-the-mill collection, part of thousands of weapons seized annually in the course of investigating crimes.

"The evidence gathered indicates that Gen. Turner converted and sold these firearms for personal gain," Manuel testified.

Pope Reiterates He Is Sole Ruler

Vatican City (AP) — Pope Paul VI restated Monday the traditional Roman Catholic concept that the Pope is the supreme and sole ruler of the whole church.

This, he said, comes from Jesus Christ and whoever rejects or attacks the concept "assails the one true church."

The pontiff made the declaration in a speech opening the first meeting of a theological commission he appointed to advise him on questions of faith, doctrine and morals.

Two members of the commission, French Dominican Yves Congar and German Jesuit Karl Rahner, once were investigated by the Vatican for holding unorthodox views. They were expected to suggest some weakening of papal powers. The closed-door discussions got under way after the Pope's address.

In July Father Rahner announced his support of the reformist stand of Leo Joseph Cardinal Suenens, the outspoken primate of Belgium. Cardinal Suenens told the magazine Informations Catholiques that the Pope's power to act unilaterally should be limited and the church's central bureaucracy, the Roman Curia, be dismantled.

Such is the dissent in Catholic ranks, however, that Pope Paul may find himself combatting contrary opinions in his own advisory commission. He certainly will find some opposition when the Second World Synod of Bishops, which he convoked, opens here on Saturday.

The bishops are to discuss relations between themselves and the Vatican. One member of the synod has already voiced a challenge along these lines.

The Most Rev. Alexander

Carter of Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., chairman of the Canadian Episcopal Conference, joined 14 U.S. theologians in saying: "The Catholic Church does not recognize the Pope to be its absolute monarch, nor the bishops as the mere delegates of the Pope."

Strike Pay OKd By LAP Board

... ONLY 4 VOTE NEGATIVE

By KEN NEUNDORF
Star Staff Writer
Lincoln Action Program community organizers who went on strike two weeks ago will be paid for the striking period, the LAP board of directors decided Monday night.

With only four dissenting votes, the board decided to designate the week-long strike period as one in which "community organizers were organized for self-help."

The proposal won over a suggestion to pay the strikers annual leave, or vacation pay, for the period.

Won Wage Boost

The organizers won a starting hourly wage boost from $1.60 to $1.79 when the LAP board met Sept. 29 following the strike.

The board turned down a motion to pay four supervisory workers who honored the organizers' picket lines and failed to work.

In other action, a group of black youths slated to speak before the board about some of their concerns failed to appear, but board member Robert Randolph spoke briefly in their behalf.

"Since Lincoln Action Program is a poverty agency, these youths feel that it can't do much for them," Randolph said. "They're black, but they're not poor."

'Can Help'

"But since Lincoln Action Program is a community agency, they feel it can help in some ways," he continued, naming community cleanup and recreation as two examples.

"I think that when we have recreational programs, all the young people should be involved, not just the low-income group," he said.

Randolph and John Shaw, both representing low-income areas, advocated more representation on the board for the low-income group.

"One-third of the board is just not enough," Shaw said. LAP Chairman Neil Sipp invited them to present their case to the committee in charge of constitutional matters.

'Insult' Alleged

Randolph also moved that board members who walk out of meetings as an "insult" to other members be unseated.

He said two members who walked out last week did so as an insult to the low-income representatives.

Sipp said he could not accept the motion in that form and that Randolph should take his complaint to the nominations committee. He set the date for the next committee meeting next Tuesday.

Report Heard

The board also heard a report on the LAP summer program and plans for improved distribution of food stamps.

Helen Adams of the recreational staff reported that 700 youths were served during the summer in such activities as swimming, field trips and stays at the Field Keller Ranch.

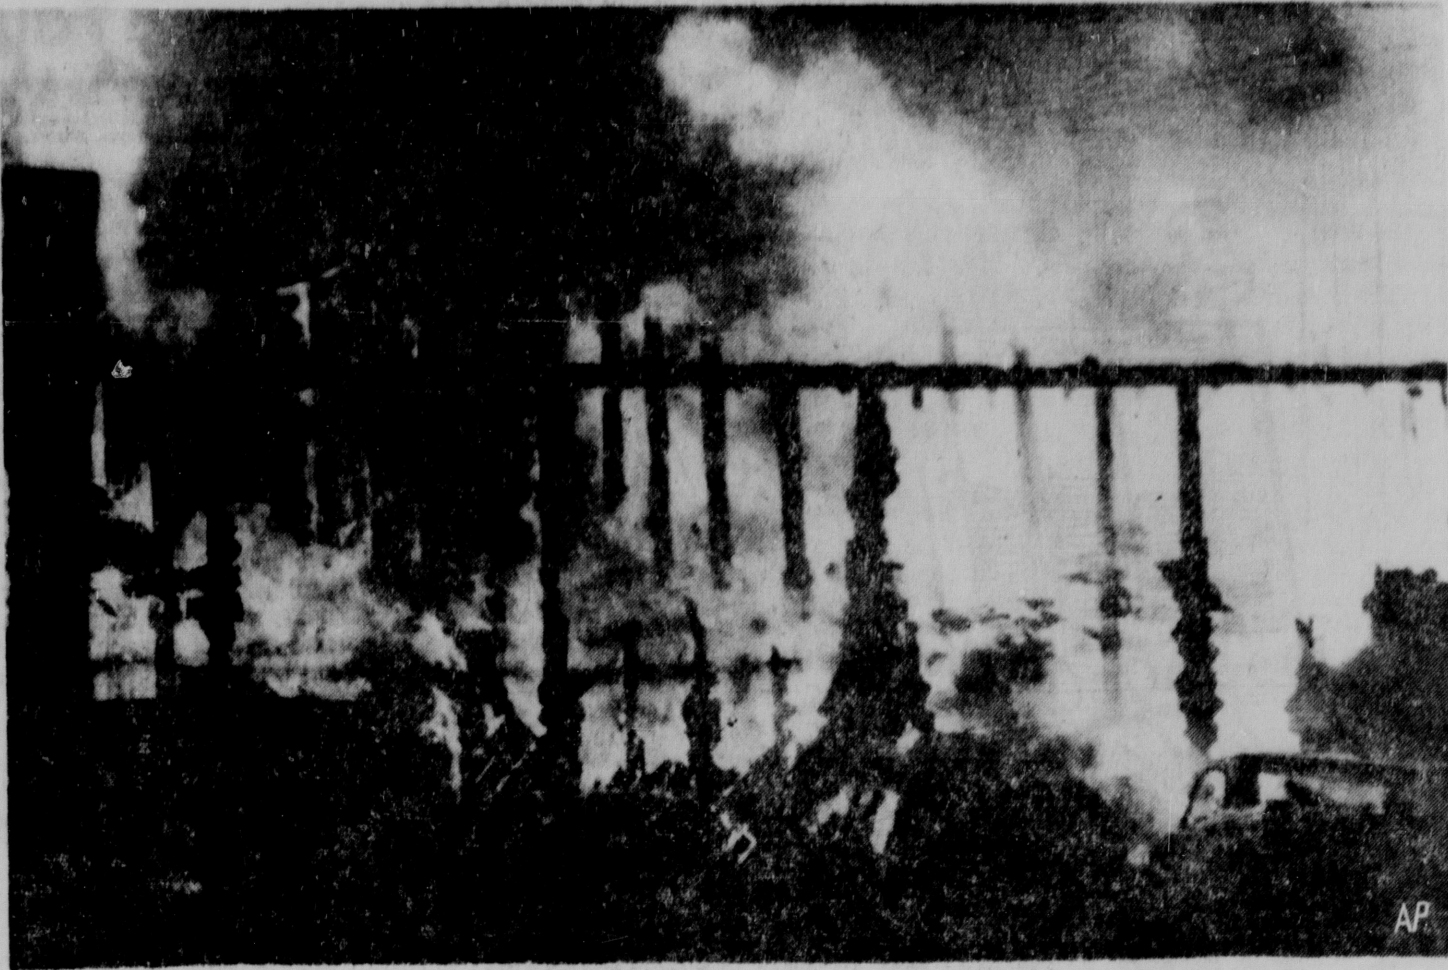

In addition, twelve 4-H clubs and one youth council, all of which began this summer, are continuing, she said.

Center Needed

Lola Ullstrom of the senior citizens advisory council told the board that a food stamp distribution center is needed in the downtown area to serve the elderly.

She said a petition is currently being passed in an effort to establish a distribution center at 1401 O.

LAP Executive Director Art May told the board that 700 homes of senior citizens received some kind of service in "Project Homestead," which employed 15 senior citizens as supervisors during the summer months and 60 youths working under the Neighborhood Youth Corps program.

Owner Donald Gifford said it would be some time before he could estimate the dollar loss because "all of our records and papers are gone. We had no records anywhere except those in the office."

The lumber yard continued to smolder Monday evening as State Fire Investigator John Primrose and Fire Capt. Howard Schneider sought to determine the cause of the blaze.

They said the flames apparently started "somewhere in the lumber storage area" of the yard, which was a block long and a half-block wide.

The alarm was sounded at 1:58 a.m., and it took two shifts of Fremont Fire Department Personnel and 40 to 50 volunteer fire fighters about one hour to bring the fire under control.

George Rogers, general manager for the nearby Adams Motor Co., said "none of our buildings burned. But a common wall with Gifford at the east end of the body shop is in bad shape."

Rogers said 20 to 25 cars in the firm's lot and body shop equipment were moved.

The lumber yard, located on Highway 30 northeast of Fremont, was established by Arthur Gifford in 1943 and was sold to his son, Donald, the present owner, in 1956.

Firemen called the fire the worst in Fremont since a 1965 blaze that destroyed a clothing store, hardware store and music shop.

Barbershop Is Still Barbershop Despite . . .

Blair — A stranger to Blair can't be sure whether "Dude's" is a barbershop or a beauty parlor.

One male came to the door the other day and when he saw a woman cutting a woman's hair, he stopped stock still and blurted out the question: "Is this a barbershop?"

But Wallace (Dude) Plummer and his wife, Alice, agree that it is a barbershop despite the fact it has women customers and also has one of a half-dozen women barbers in Nebraska.

Mrs. Plummer, now serving out her apprenticeship in her husband's shop after 1½ months of training in an Omaha barber college, is kept busy with a five-day 40-hour week in the shop and making a home for her husband and four children.

A few of the regular customers prefer Mrs. Plummer's touch with scissors and straight-blade razor to her husbands. "No one has really objected as I thought they would," she said.

Others, notably the 7-and-8 year olds who got their first haircuts from Plummer, aren't about to change barbers.

Despite the fact her presence has lived up 'life in the barber shop, Mrs. Plummer conceded she'd never have taken it up if her husband hadn't needed the help.

Rev. Mertz Quits; Youth Meet Criticism Not 'Major Reason'

Columbus (UPI) — The Rev. Russell Mertz, pastor of St. Luke's Church here, has resigned effective Jan. 1, it was reported Monday.

Rev. Mertz was dean of the United Church of Christ (UCC) youth conference at Doane College last August which was a center of controversy after there were reports of misconduct on the part of the participants.

He said criticism of his role in the conference was not the "major reason" for his resignation.

"I've been on the verge of moving for some time," he said. "This just crystalized my decision."

Earlier, the Rev. Robert Gall of Lincoln, top UCC youth leader, resigned after the church's board of directors investigated charges made about activities at the conference.

2 From State Casualties In Vietnam

Washington — The names of two more Nebraskans have been added to the list of Army men killed in Vietnam.

The Defense Department said Monday Sgt. Terry L. Berney, son of Mr. and Mrs. Virgil E. Berney Sr., of Palmer has been killed in action.

The department also said that Pvt. Harland L. Wilkinson of Omaha, previously reported missing is now listed as dead from hostile action.

Pvt. Wilkinson was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond F. Wilkinson of (4521 South 61st Ave.) Omaha.

Omaha Girl, 17, Killed In Crash

Omaha — Marilyn Marrow, 17, Omaha, a senior at Westside High School, died Sunday night of injuries suffered earlier in the day in a two-car crash in West Omaha.

Police said the car she was driving was in collision with one driven by Bernard Hart, 21, also of Omaha. Hart was reported in fair condition at a hospital. The victim was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Willard Marrow.

Hotel Offer Withdrawn

Beatrice (UPI) — U.S. District Judge Robert Van Pelt of Lincoln is expected to order bankruptcy proceedings Tuesday for the financially troubled Paddock Hotel in Beatrice.

The Defenders of the Christian Faith, who had submitted a bid of $110,000, have notified their attorneys in the case they wish to withdraw the bid because "it was not deemed bona fide by the court."

Before the bid was withdrawn, Van Pelt ordered Robert Brower of Lincoln, Trustee of the hotel, to come up with a detailed formula for distribution of the offer to the creditors by Monday. When issuing his order, Van Pelt said Brower faced an uphill battle.

The judge has scheduled a hearing in Lincoln Tuesday to decide the case.

Counts Amended; Two Plead Guilty

Each of two people originally charged with three felony counts of obtaining goods by false pretenses pleaded guilty in Lancaster County Court to amended misdemeanor charges of fraudulent use of credit cards.

Ralph Edward Bankson Jr., 21, and Charlene M. McDougall, 24, both of Fort Wayne, Ind., were sentenced to 10 days in jail on each count.

Judge Ralph Slocum ordered the jail terms to run consecutively. Each will serve a 30-day sentence.

The Indiana couple was specifically charged with using fraudulent credit cards to purchase merchandise at Steven's Jewelers, The Famous and World Electronics.

all-electric living case study no. 1

"I'll Take Off My Shoes This Winter"

Says Mrs. Robert Forbes of Palmer, a Nebraska farm homemaker who has experienced the comfort, cleanliness and convenience of all-electric living for the past 7 years.

"Electric heat is wonderful," says Mrs. Forbes. "It's clean and you don't have that air movement. We had an old, dirty oil furnace — and you were cold on one side and hot on the other. Now we have comfortable warmth in every area of the house."

Mr. Forbes figures his electric heat costs for his seven-room home at $160 per year, an average of $20 per month during the eight heating months.

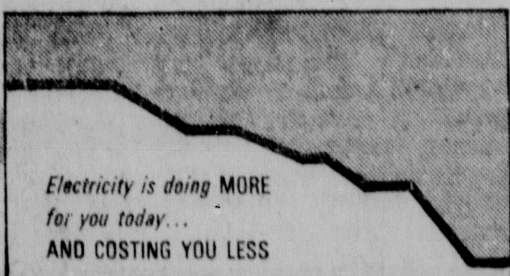

But the Forbes family — along with their daughter and her husband, Wayne Moeller and their three children who also live in an all-electric home on the Forbes spread — take advantage of all the joys and work-savers possible through electricity. Mrs. Forbes relates that her all-electric kitchen puts "everything right at my fingertips — and it's so clean."

Mr. Forbes uses electricity for irrigation, grain storage and drying, feed and materials handling, temperature regulation in the hog house and wintertime stock tank heating.

In short, say the Forbes', electricity not only cuts costs in farming, but delivers a whole lot of work savers and better living for all.

EVENTS

IN PERSPECTIVE

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

Few there are who do not know the name of Art Linkletter, the radio and TV personality who made it big on the antics of children. Not so many know Diane Linkletter, 20-year-old daughter of the entertainer. She died over the past weekend.

She killed herself in a plunge from an upper story window of an apartment. Her death came in the wake of her use of drugs — drugs which gave her suicidal tendencies which she finally succumbed to.

She was described by her father as a lovely and talented girl and her picture would bear this out. Sadly, Linkletter has said that he knew she was on drugs but that it was too late for him to do anything about it.

Probably he was right. Once an individual gets hooked on drugs, it is too late for anyone to really do anything about it. Only the individual can do anything about it but it is mighty tough for him to do it.

What he has to do is quit and that is the impossible job for many of them. Some do quit, of course, but many simply go on to the complete ruin of their lives and perhaps an early and unfortunate death. Obviously, prevention is the treatment that offers the best hope of success.

The use and abuse of drugs is a subject that has been receiving increased attention lately, primarily because there appears to be greater abuse these days and a growing use of drugs among young people. In Lincoln, a number of groups and individuals have begun to concern themselves with the problem in an effort to prevent some future tragedy.

All indications are that drugs are not heavily used by the young people of this area, either at the university or at the high-school level. Surprisingly, one can even include the junior highs and elementary grades as a possible problem area.

Glue-sniffing is not unknown among the early teens and while this may be no sign of permanent addiction, it is a sign of trouble and a great danger. It is a practice that can do permanent damage to the brain.

Along with many other areas of living, the Lincoln School District attempts to conduct an educational program on drugs. This is a part of the health education program and aimed at an understanding of the role of drugs and their extreme danger when abused.

This program will be explained at a series of meetings beginning tonight at 7:30 p.m. at the Bennett Martin Library. The following meetings will be held on the next three successive Tuesday evenings at the same place.

Tha evening courses, sponsored by the Extension Division of the University of Nebraska, will cover effects of drugs and narcotics, drug law-enforcement, drug educational programs and personal histories of former drug users.

Also, many social, welfare and law-enforcement groups are currently involved in a joint discussion of what might be done in this area of drug abuse for the future. The group is just getting started and what it might do remains to be known.

But it is obvious that there is a keen interest in Lincoln in doing something before an emergency arises. The death of Miss Linkletter demonstrates the great human need for this kind of preventive action.

Parents would be well advised to learn what they can about the drug problem and the entire community is the wiser for studying and implementing whatever preventive programs can be devised. The current activities in Lincoln offer an opportunity for both of these developments.

We have been fortunate in Lincoln in the small number of drug abuse problems that we have had. This is a fine tribute to the young people of the area and the record can be maintained with the proper planning for the future.

White House These Days Sees New Color Touches

Washington (UPI) — A lot of relatively quiet construction work is going on around 1600 Pennsylvania Avenue at night, on the weekends and when President Nixon is away.

Until now, most of it has been painting and general refurbishing. His oval office, for example, is now a much brighter place than during recent administrations — such as a bright blue rug bordered by gold-colored stars and a colorful presidential seal in the middle.

There is a new hard floor covering beneath the rug, too, replacing the section near the rose garden door which through the Kennedy and Johnson eras continued to show the golf spike marks made by the late President Dwight D. Eisenhower when he walked out to the south lawn for practice shots in the late afternoons.

Also, White House police uniforms have been spruced up by the addition of gold braid loops on their right shoulders and brilliant gold-yellow stripes down the outside of each trouser leg.

These added touches of color and ceremony undoubtedly are in part derivative from the President's travels to Europe and Asia since taking office. Also, there is a very realistic fact that his office set-up in the west wing is one of the grubbier, more overcrowded establishments in this ordinarily beautiful and spacious Capital.

The Postmaster General's waiting room is considerably larger than the President's own oval office. Secretaries and stenographers at the State Department — some of them at least — have larger, more airy and undoubtedly more pleasant working conditions than some of Nixon's chief policy officials in the White House west wing.

Ambassadors calling on the President often have to wait in straight-backed chairs in a hallway outside his office or, at best, in the cabinet room which is a relatively grim place with bookshelves stocked with such nifties as Tariff Commission reports of many years ago or federal legal digests.

The offices for many presidential assistants are so small that as many as two or three of them may be herded into one room, along with their secretaries.

Part of this incredible situation is due to vanity. A presidential assistant would work in a west wing closet in preference to being stationed in the relatively commodious east wing on the other side of the White House or in the executive offices building, just a few feet across West Executive Avenue from the President's own office — or as one assistant said, "My office in EOB has a wonderful view . . . of the dog kennels."

What Protesters Forget

It was a timely reminder by South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu that American troops not leave Vietnam before the North Vietnamese pull back to their own country. This is one point of things that protesters in this country forget about.

They want the U.S. to pull its troops out of Vietnam but they say nothing about North Vietnam doing the same thing. Students of that Asian conflict may debate the beginnings of the difficulty there in terms of who was initially at fault in not honoring the agreements of the Geneva Conference of 1954 but there is no question that hostilities increased from that time on in direct proportion to North Vietnamese aggression against the south.

There is a great deal more logic in campaigning for the North Vietnamese communists to get out of South Vietnam than there is in advocating U.S. withdrawal.

A withdrawal by the north, it might be pointed out, would end the war even more quickly than would U.S. withdrawal.

With U.S. withdrawal, in fact, there would likely be a real blood bath between communists from the north and the South Vietnamese military and government. The truth is that only a withdrawal of the invading forces from the north would produce any sort of guarantee of an end to the fighting.

Protesters, as they step up their activity this month against U.S. involvement, might well be asked what it is they really want to stop. Do they really want to stop the killing in Vietnam, a humanitarian objective they attempt to present, or do they, by ignorance or design, simply think the communists from the north should be given free rein to plunder their neighbor? It is hard to understand those who take such violent issue with the U.S. presence in Asia while ignoring the flagrant actions of the communists.

Town Hall Meetings

Next Monday Gov. Norbert Tiemann and officials in his administration begin another series of Town Hall meetings. Some 25 Nebraska communities will be visited during the remainder of this year and early in 1970.

The meetings have been held throughout the governor's term to allow citizens an opportunity to ask questions of the governor and officials of state departments as well as receive a briefing on governmental affairs.

There have been big crowds, generally, at previous Town Hall meetings and if the past holds true during the coming series, taxes and spending will be the major areas of concern among Nebraskans with the subject of roads rated a notch below in interest.

Gov. Tiemann should be credited again for initiating these meetings. They offer a great opportunity for citizens to participate more actively in state government. It gives the taxpayer a chance to sound off and the governor a better understanding of what people are thinking about at the grass roots level.

The people are more fully aware of what state government is doing through the governor's briefing, and he, in turn, is helped in shaping his program and priorities for the state through the give-and-take of a town hall meeting. Nebraskans are urged to take advantage of the opportunity to express their views.

Family Housing Plan Suffered Under Sheridan; String-Pulling Restored His Deprived Authority

WASHINGTON — President Nixon really should get better acquainted with Barry Shillito, the assistant defense secretary whose name cropped up at the last White House press conference and drew a blank from the President.

"I don't know the gentleman," said Nixon, with a helpless shrug, in answer to a Sara McClendon poser.

Shillito just happens to be the Pentagon's top procurement official, who is responsible for spending more than any other single individual. He is also chief custodian of all military installations, a vast $50 billion empire that costs $2 billion a year simply to maintain.

He has attracted attention in the past for his explanations of why the C-5A cargo plane happened to cost $2 billion more than the estimates and why the Minuteman-2 missile ran $4 billion above the estimates. The amount of these two miscalculations alone would have financed the entire anti-poverty program.

More recently, Shillito has given one of his deputies, "Big Ed" Sheridan, a job that he badly bungled eight years ago. As deputy assistant secretary in charge of property and installations, Sheridan presided over the Defense Department's $3 billion family housing program.

He was the sort of civilian manager the brass hats like; he let them run things as they pleased. He spent billions for military housing without bothering to establish a cost accounting system. This meant he had no check on how the local commanders were spending their housing funds.

In 1961, then Secretary of Defense Robert McNamara became disturbed over Sheridan's operations and appointed a civilian advisory panel to conduct "an intensive reappraisal" of the family housing program. The panel submitted its report marked "For Official Use Only," on Nov. 15, 1961.

"There is a lack of coordinated program management for family housing . . ." declared the report. "Total, accurate and meaningful cost data for operation and maintenance of family housing are lacking."

"Army and Air Force do not have cost accounting systems specifically for family housing. Effective program management requires the establishment of a cost accounting system which will produce uniform cost data."

Translated, this meant that "Big Ed" Sheridan was botching up his job. Accordingly, responsibility for family housing was removed from his domain. The only reason Sheridan was retained at all, say insiders, was because he had powerful friends on Capitol Hill.

The family housing program improved so dramatically, after its separation from Sheridan, that defense officials decided to take troop housing away from him, too. This was formally proposed by Cyrus Vance, then deputy defense secretary, in a memo dated June 19, 1967.

The plan was approved and ready to implement by the end of the month. Again, Sheridan had failed to set up a cost accounting system. A June 30, 1967, memo spelled out the transfer of troop housing away from Sheridan and specifically directed his

The Fruits

Fremont, Neb.
"By their fruits ye shall know them."

The United Church of Christ's and Presbyterian's Youth Conference at Doane produced quite a lot of "fruit"! It wasn't a big surprise for some of us, though, because for a long time we have been reading about these liberal churches' inclination to alienate the children from their parents, undermine their patriotism and respect for the law, and question the Bible's history and teachings.

The Bible tells us that the Apostate Church will take over the world and it looks as if it is doing it, and not very many people will even resist. The three who told of their experiences were unusually brave.

Lenin said: "We will find our most fertile field for infiltration of Marxism within the field of religion, because religious people are the most gullible and will accept almost anything if it is couched in religious terminology."

DISGUSTED

Sex Education

Otoe, Neb.

A few years ago I had my letter about sex education in school printed in a newspaper, but it seems time to do so again. Since that time I have graduated from high school, attended college and married a fine young man — so I am not totally unaware of our young people and their parents.

Perhaps many of you parents who protest a sex education program in your schools are not as well informed as you should be. Are you disgusted because your child is learning nature's basic instincts of reproduction? A farmer's son or daughter is likely to come in contact with conception, birth, feeding habits and even death in a very short time. They learn to understand and often help, as they may be responsible for certain livestock and pets. Children in a schoolroom learn these same things under educated and trained personnel who can tell them why and how with the proper words and meanings. These same trained teachers do not become embarrassed by questions or in answering these questions, thus shedding light on the problem — not a secretive cloak which children must penetrate in their own sometimes unfortunate way.

Many parents argue that any kind of sex education should be taught at a church or in the home. I believe the church has to teach morality but it is not equipped with trained people to teach sex in an easy, informative manner. Schools which have set up a sex education program are obviously ready to take on the responsibility that this type of teaching demands. Besides, 100 per cent of today's young people do not attend religious classes while they must go to school.

On the other hand, many people demand that parents be responsible for informing their children. This method leaves much to be desired. Parents with junior high and high school age students come to realize that they cannot speak as freely with their children as they could a few years ago. Consequently, it becomes too late for that "little talk." In the end, many young people are left wondering and often receive their information from a very poor source.

Now your children begin to date and parents lie awake worrying. And if a daughter comes home late, she is immediately questioned as to her actions. And later still a daughter tearfully announces she is pregnant or a boy with downcast eyes declares he HAS to get married.

Sex education could inform these young people before it is too late. They would learn not only the functions of the body but, more important, the moral and psychological aspects of sex, problems in going steady, marriage, and pre-marital and extra-marital relations. If students can study and learn under good supervision, they can understand and cope better with their own problems. These things are taught in college but often this is too late to reach the right people.

While many of you may argue against sex education, I will argue for it because I feel our schools do not teach "Sex and How To Do It" but "Life and How To Understand It." I have also been rather outspoken about this matter and perhaps you wonder what gives me the right to voice my opinion. You may ask me if I have children of my own to make me an authority on the subject. My answer is no — and at 21, isn't that better than saying yes?

A YOUNG PERSON

GEORGE C. THOSTESON, M.D.

To Your Good Health

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My husband has pains in his chest which have been diagnosed as angina pectoris. What diet would be best to help him? — Mrs. H.N.

Diet is of indirect value. Angina pains usually (although not always) are related to the heart being overstrained. Therefore, if the patient is obese, losing some weight will take some of the burden off his heart and thus help reduce the pains.

It is generally accepted that a diet low in animal fats will help retard the development of atherosclerosis, or hardening of the arteries, by reducing the cholesterol level in the blood.

A diet low in animal fat would mean cutting all visible fat off meat, avoiding fried foods, gravies and pastries, and substituting vegetable oils for solid fats in cooking.

In some instances, reduction of the blood cholesterol level, whether by diet, medication or both, has been known to lessen the frequency of angina pains.

One other important dietary point is to avoid eating too much at one meal, and to avoid exertion too soon after a meal. The process of digestion itself puts an added burden on the heart; exercise before the digestive processes have passed their peak adds to the strain, and this strain, on the heart is what triggers many angina attacks. Indeed, such attacks can be provoked merely by eating a big meal.

Along with these thoughts, do not underestimate the value of proper exercise.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have been told that to cure the permanent ache in my spine, it may be necessary for me to go into traction for several months. For some reason, I have an unreasonable fear of this and it might help if I knew a little more about what "traction" involves. Can it be applied at home or in a hospital? — M.L.D.

Traction merely means pulling. You've seen pictures of people in a hospital with a broken leg — the leg raised, and a cord and pulley and weight used. This is to draw the bones out to proper position while they knit.

It's the same general principle with traction for the spine, but applied differently. Many times a sort of head harness is used, which can be fastened to the top of a doorway or some such place.

Then the patient, with his head in the harness, can let his weight sag. The purpose usually is to let the bones of the spine separate very slightly, to relieve pressure of a nerve or nerves radiating out from the spinal column.

There are many variations of just how it is done. Sometimes 15 minutes or so in traction, night and morning, is sufficient, but conditions vary so much that I can't make any guess about your case — a few minutes' talk with your doctor will probably allay your worries effectively.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Although malocclusions are usually corrected by an orthodontist, I would like to know if protruding front teeth can be corrected by surgery. Plastic surgeons perform "nose jobs." Can they do something similar with teeth? — G.F.O.

In particular severe cases, a plastic surgeon and orthodontist may work together to correct the situation.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Is there any danger or harmful effect from tweezing hairs from the frontal areas of the nose if one dabs rubbing alcohol on the area afterward? Will the hair grow thicker or more rapidly because of tweezing? — A.S.

I don't recommend pulling out such hair, simply because our noses are natural habitat for various germs, especially the staphylococcus. Even with alcohol dabs before and after, there is some risk of germs infecting the spot from which the hair has been pulled.

I suggest snipping the hairs off close to the surface.

Neither method will increase the hair growth in any way.

Dr. Thosteson welcomes all mail from his readers, but because of the great volume received daily he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

POSTCARD

by Sten Delaplane

Getting dark earlier around here. An autumn evening chill in the air. Somewhere I read that it will be an early winter. The writer said squirrels were laying in nuts earlier.

I think the writer is some kind of a nut. Who can depend on a squirrel?

"Look at next spring's fashions," she said across the breakfast table. "On the women's page. Here."

That is how I know winter is nigh. When birds begin looking at spring fashions.

As darkness comes earlier, the TV goes on earlier. Prime time is extended — in summer you can't get a good picture until the sun goes down around 8:30.

Now we can turn on earlier. Get programs we haven't seen since last February.

"Draw, Stranger." The Stranger is facing the Fastest and Meanest Gun in the West.

The Stranger is even faster! But he will not draw. He promised his dear old Ma to stop shooting folks.

"Stop shootin' all those folks, Stranger," his Ma pleaded. "Those folks are just folks, Stranger."

The Stranger said: "Consarn it, Ma. Ain't no fun anywhere anyhow. All right, I promise." It is a gripping drama of the Old West.

When autumn comes we put away the outdoor barbecue (that cost $11.95). Start cooking on the super duper self-cleaning, self-basting, automatic oven. (That cost me more than I could afford.)

A few of the hardier types are still cooking out. The smoky plumes of the pioneers, rising in the cool autumn evening. I can see the glow of the charcoal fire across our valley. (Occasionally the cook shoots it down with a water pistol. He is the Fastest Barbecue Gun in Shady Acres.)

As evening falls and lights come on, we can see our neighbors at work and play. Each window across the valley is a square of action. A dozen color TV sets — who wants to watch The Stranger when you can peek at strangers you know.

"I see Sidearm is having an early go at the gin."

Sidearm is stirring the martini pot. He is talking to someone across the room. And we assume this is Mrs. Sidearm.

However, we don't know what he's saying. It's like TV with the sound turned off. We can make up our own dialogue.

Is he saying: "Darling, why do you insist on slaving over a hot stove? Let me take you to a little restaurant I know with candlelight and wine?"

Or is he saying: "Pork chops! Again?"

(Guess who made up which line.)

"Why don't we go out more often?" she said. "There's so much doing now that fall is here."

I said: "And miss all the TV we couldn't see during the summer?"

Across the valley, the Fastest Barbecue Gun has put on a sweater. That man is all for punishing himself. Some kind of hangup. He should come in out of the cold. Take care.

"Where would we go?" I said. "To a Doggie Diner?"

She said: "There's a lot of new movies we haven't seen."

I said: "Did you ever think if you wait long enough they'll bring them to you? On the Late Late Show."

She said: "The Sidearms are having another drink now. They seem so in love."

I said: "How can you tell without hearing them? Maybe they're hitting that gin to keep from hitting each other."

She said: "I can tell. It's a woman's intuition."

I said: "You're driving me to an early drink."

Ah, autumn is in the air. "There is a harmony in autumn," said the poet. "How about a little harmony?" I said. "Like the Sidearms. Keep it light on vermouth. Then I know a little restaurant with candlelight and wine..."

"It will only take me a minute to change," she said.

That's how I know it will be an early winter. I should go around checking squirrels picking up nuts.

CARMICHAEL

LIFE BEGINS AT FORTY:

By ROBERT PETERSON

Our hearts often bleed for older people confined to "four walls." But some of these people make the best of their situations and find no particular evil in being cooped up in a room. Some, in fact, find it enormously satisfying.

"I've lived in four walls for six years," writes Charles Nazar of Gloucester, New Jersey. "I'm in a wheelchair and alone except when an occasional friend looks in on me. But I've learned to love my four walls and don't feel a bit sorry for myself."

"My four walls can be a haven or a hell — whichever I choose them to be. And I choose to make them my haven — a warm, comfortable, satisfying little paradise for the sunset of life.

"It's true there's a world outside that I cannot reach physically. But it's all within my reach. I'm really not confined when I consider that anything of import happening in the world is quickly reported to me by radio and TV."

"My four walls are like a school, too. Here I can read and improve my knowledge of a million things. I have so many wonderful books and magazines, and my daily paper brings me a wealth of current information."

"I cannot go to church, but my four walls are my church. I can read my Bible and feel very spiritual alone. I always feel He's near when I'm lonely. I actually talk to him and seem to hear him answer back."

"Then there are memories. I can think back to cities I've visited, fields I've run across, streets I've walked, people I've known."

"My four walls are also my mansion. Here within easy reach are dozens of objects from my past — pictures, chairs, tables, ornaments. When I look at them or touch them I'm reminded they were touched by those I loved who have since passed on. Now they seem graced with the breath of those no longer here."

"So don't be sorry because I'm confined to four walls. I feel I'm fortunate to have these four walls for they bring me all the contentment and fulfillment I could possibly want in my retirement years."

The foregoing letter is a classic in positive thinking, and those who know elders confined to four walls should clip and send it to them. Not everyone has the spiritual and emotional resources to find satisfaction in living alone, invalidism, and cramped quarters. But the fact that Mr. Nazar manages to find life rewarding despite infirmities and limitations should be heartening to elders everywhere.

Lardy of the Institute for Enzyme Research at the University of Wisconsin who has discovered new pathways for the manufacture of glucose; Dr. Howard Katzen of the Merck Institute for Therapeutic Research, Rahway, New Jersey, who has projected mechanisms for how insulin works based on his discovery of a series of new enzymes; and Dr. James Ashmore of the University of Indiana School of Medicine whose research has been in the effect of hormones on carbohydrate metabolism.

Dr. Myron Mehlman, associate professor of biochemistry, is coordinator of the symposium, which is financed by grants from various pharmaceutical firms.

Everroad Narrows Political Options

Lt. Gov. John Everroad Monday said he has "pretty well" narrowed his political options for 1970 to a U.S. Senate race as a petition candidate or a Republican primary contest for the House.

If Everroad should enter the Senate race, he would challenge both Sen. Roman Hruska, assuming he is the Republican nominee, and the Democratic nominee.

If the lieutenant governor chooses a House race, he would enter the Republican primary contest in the Second Congressional District, he said.

Rep. Glenn Cunningham holds that seat, and is expected to seek re-election. Douglas County Commissioner John McCollister is likely to challenge Cunningham in the GOP primary.

"If McCollister gets in, that would open it up pretty good," Everroad noted. "I might just move in with him."

Should Everroad decide to seek the Senate seat, he noted, he would be doing so as a Republican, not as an independent.

But, he said, he would follow the petition route rather than enter the Republican primary.

"That's the only way I could do it," he suggested.

In any event, Everroad said, he is not going to make any firm decisions until about the first of the year.

"I want to watch developments and see what the rest of them are going to do," he said.

If Everroad were to enter the Senate contest as a petition candidate, he could bypass a GOP primary clash with Hruska and test him in a three-candidate general election showdown when both Republican and Democratic voters would be eligible to vote for him.

Hruska has never had primary opposition for the Senate.

Haynsworth Would Form Trusteeship

Washington (AP) — The White House announced Monday that Judge Clement F. Haynsworth Jr. has volunteered to put his financial holdings under a trusteeship to avoid conflicts of interest if he is confirmed as a Supreme Court justice.

This disclosure came some hours after two Republican senators had issued a detailed defense of Haynsworth's labor rulings and declared criticism of the nomination results from "misinformation or little knowledge of the facts."

In announcing Haynsworth's offer to set up a trusteeship, White House press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler asserted that no one in the administration had suggested such a move to the South Carolina jurist, who is a wealthy man.

On some occasions in the past executive appointees, when taking office, have established such trusteeships under which management of their financial affairs was conducted by the trustees without consultation with the man establishing the trust. Such trusts normally are dissolved when the official leaves office.

As far as known, no such steps has ever been taken by a federal judge. These appointments are for life.

In announcing Haynsworth's offer, Ziegler said he has heard President Nixon "express the thought that this type of action on the part of the judiciary would be a good thing."

He said the President had said this, but not in relation to the Haynsworth matter.

Memory Unclear

When reporters pressed Ziegler for when he had heard such sentiment expressed by the President he said he was not exactly sure but thought it had been expressed after the nomination of Chief Justice Warren Burger. But it did not relate to Burger, he added.

Haynsworth, now judge of the 4th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals, has run into heated controversy over his nomination by Nixon for a post on the nation's highest court. The objections have ranged from his opinions in labor and civil rights cases to his financial holdings in connection with two cases that came before the appeals court.

Sens. Roman L. Hruska of Nebraska and Marlow W. Cook of Kentucky sent a study of Haynsworth's labor decisions to every senator, accompanying it with a letter assessing the facts.

Report 1st Of 3

Hruska and Cook, both members of the Senate Judiciary Committee, said their report is the first of three they will put out in the next few days.

The next report will be on allegations that Haynsworth's decisions have retarded civil rights progress. The third will deal with questions of conflict of interest.

In another development Monday, Senate GOP leader Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania said he expects the Judiciary Committee to report the Haynsworth nomination to the floor when it meets Wednesday.

Scott said he expects to vote for Haynsworth in committee and he indicated he probably will vote for the nominee on the floor although he does not plan to lead the administration's fight.

Groppi's Attempt To Win Freedom Denied By Judge

Madison, Wis. (AP) — A federal judge Monday denied the Rev. James E. Groppi's bid for immediate release from the Dane County jail.

Judge James Doyle said the militant Roman Catholic priest's petition for release did not indicate that he had exhausted remedies available in the state courts.

Groppi's attorneys then filed for a writ of habeas corpus in Circuit Court, which scheduled a hearing for Tuesday while the civil rights leader remained in jail where he had been taken Wednesday during a series of welfare demonstrations.

Groppi, who led three days of welfare protests on the state capitol, culminated by an 11-hour takeover of the assembly chambers, was arrested last week on a disorderly conduct charge. He was later cited by the state assembly for contempt under a 121-year-old state law and ordered jailed without trial.

The law never has been tested in the courts because it was the first time the assembly ever had invoked the law.

PFMA Named In Price-Fixing Suit

The State of Nebraska has filed suit in U.S. District Court charging the Plumbing Fixture Manufacturers Association (PFMA) with price-fixing in violation of the Sherman Antitrust Act.

Also named as defendants in the suit are 15 member firms of PFMA who are said to do business in Nebraska.

The suit seeks treble damages incurred by the state and other Nebraska governmental units through the alleged price-fixing.

The suit also asks for an injunction against violations of antitrust laws.

The defendants, the petition said, engaged in unlawful conspiracy and combination practices in order to "raise, fix, stabilize and maintain" prices of enameled cast iron and vitreous china plumbing fixtures.

The suit said the price-fixing started as early as 1956, but the state became aware of it only after the federal government filed a similar suit against PFMA in 1966 in Pennsylvania.

Competition has been restricted or eliminated by the alleged conspiracy, the suit charges, and prices were raised and maintained and consumers were deprived of benefits of free and open competition.

According to the suit, national sales of the plumbing fixture types in question totaled $1 billion during the period. PFMA sold 98% of the enameled castiron and 80% of the vitreous fixtures, it was alleged.

Gen. Welch Asked To Take Stand On National Civil Defense Report

Nebraska's adjutant general has been asked to take a position on a Civil Defense paper that he says has "national policy implications."

Maj. Gen. Lyle Welch said Monday he would be in Washington next Monday and Tuesday as one of four "Civil Defense directors of states they think have made some significant progress" to get an advance look at a report bound for President Nixon.

The study, Welch said, will be the end product of a commission appointed by President Nixon to study the organizational structure, finances, administration, methods of operation and future needs of the national Civil Defense framework.

"I have no idea what they will say," he said, adding that any announcement of the content would probably have to come from the President, primarily as a political means to smooth administration.

Thurmond Ends Boycott Of High Court

The New York Times

Washington — Chief Justice Warren Earl Burger took his seat for the first time Monday and Sen. Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., an outspoken critic of the liberal court of former Chief Justice Earl Warren, ended a long boycott of the court's session.

Thurmond was present at a counsel table close to the bench as the Supreme Court opened its 1969-1970 term with a brief ceremony. It consisted primarily of the admission of 93 lawyers to practice before the high court.

Thurmond, who had stayed away from the court since shortly after the justices declared school segregation unconstitutional in 1954, appeared Monday to move the admission of a South Carolina lawyer, James L. M. Cromer of Columbia.

Fire Damage In Nebraska Tops $16 Million

By GARY CLAXTON
Associated Press Writer

The state fire marshal's office has joined fire fighters across the nation in a rather abstract commemoration of what might have been the ill-fated footwork of a cow.

It was on Oct. 8, 1871, that tradition says a cow barn, maintained by a Mrs. O'Leary, kindled the blaze that eventually leveled much of Chicago.

And in recent years, National Fire Prevention Week has been observed during the week in which Oct. 8 falls according to State Fire Marshal Don H. Venter.

The week represents the time each year when fire departments concentrate the most attention on public education, Venter said.

And by coincidence this year, the week coincides with the release of a report showing fire damage in Nebraska during 1968 totaled $16,299,623 compared with $7,177,685 the previous year.

The annual report says 2,767 fires during 1968 resulted in 257 injuries and 66 deaths. The death toll is 26 higher than in 1967.

The increase, Venter said, can, for the most part, be attributed to:

—A single fire loss of more than $2.5 million at the General Wholesale Products Company in Norfolk.

—The increased cost of construction and replacement.

—An improved system of recording the actual value of fire losses.

Out of the 66 fire deaths for the state in 1968, Assistant State Fire Marshal Wally Barnett said in the report, "approximately 24 were involved in the misuse of ill-qualified petroleum gas."

"The public is unaware of the dangerous properties of LP gas and flammable liquids," the report said. "There is a definite problem in relating fire safety to the public, especially in the rural communities."

Nearly 900 fire prevention packets were handed out by the fire marshal's office to teachers attending the Nebraska State Fair, Venter said, in an effort to bridge the fire safety education gap.

A total of 18 persons have died this year of injuries connected with fires, Venter said.

But he indicated that the final three months of the year represent the "time of the year when people begin to light furnaces and space heaters so you can always expect some deaths from inadequately maintained heating equipment."

Venter urged Nebraskans to have a "qualified furnace man" inspect furnace fan belts, motors, connections and filters and investigate to assure there is no smell of flammable vapors or areas where heat could become trapped.

Councilman Urges Action To Change LES Operation

Lincoln City Councilman Ervin Peterson Monday urged the council's power committee to recommend that the Lincoln Electric System be operated by an administrative board.

Peterson also suggested during a City Council meeting that the committee recommend that an ordinance creating such a board be submitted to the voters next May.

The city charter requires public approval of any ordinance creating an administrative board having control over property, facilities, equipment or finances.

The councilman urged the committee action so that the council could consider the proposal, which has been endorsed by the City Power Advisory Board.

Delays Hit

"This issue has been hashed out for several years," Peterson noted, saying he saw no reason for further delays.

However, no action was taken on Peterson's proposal. Other committee members indicated that they wanted another committee meeting to discuss the operation of the public utility.

Councilman Bill Davidson said he wants to discuss other alternatives to an administrative board during the committee meeting, which was set for Friday noon.

Davidson had previously suggested the city study the possibility of selling LES and investing the proceeds. Other alternatives previously suggested included management by a separate power district or operation by a city department.

Reading Materials 'Lacking' In Jail, Inmates Complain

Inmates of the Lincoln city jail have complained that reading materials are not being made available to them.

In a petition sent to City Council members, the inmates charged that they are kept ignorant of the news because they have no radio, television or newspapers.

However, Police Inspector E. R. Henninger contended the charges were false, saying books and magazines are available from the jail library if inmates ask for them.

The police inspector said he personally has taken books and magazines to the jail for inmates to read.

Inmates complained in the letter that the jail library had been "virtually discontinued."

Henninger said magazines and books that deal with events in a sensational manner are prohibited in order to prevent any heated controversies.

He said he has no objection to inmates subscribing to newspapers or other non-sensational news magazines.

"However, we cannot afford to provide the variety of magazines each inmate might desire," Henninger said.

Lt. Louis Greiner, who is in charge of the jail, termed "unfounded" a charge that he has threatened inmates if they air grievances.

Inmates complained that Greiner threatened to "shrink our stomachs."

Greiner said, however, he had told them that he would reduce their food portions if they continued to throw cigarette butts on the jail floor.

Davidson Wants Contractors To Speed Work On Projects

Complaining about the length of time contractors are taking to complete city projects, Lincoln City Councilman Bill Davidson Monday urged that the city take steps to speed up contractors.

Davidson said he was concerned by "the number of days it takes to complete a project," noting that he has observed only a few men working at some projects.

Public Works Director Robert Obering pointed out that contractors must complete projects by a scheduled date or pay damages caused by the inconvenience of a project extending beyond the completion date.

Obering said that in the past the city has collected damages ranging from $10 to $15 per day for a small project to $150 per day for a major project.

The public works director added that his department tries to set a realistic working time length that will give the city the best possible bid.

"The more you cut the working time, the more you will pay in a bid," Obering said.

Davidson also suggested that contractors be limited to working on one project at a time.

"Maybe we could delay letting projects go to construction," the councilman said.

Obering said he was not sure whether the city could tell a contractor that projects had to be done in chronological order.

He said one problem that the city has experienced is that some contractors will delay "in doing the final touches" on a project.

Hastings Plans Ceremony To Hail Returning Soldiers

Hastings (UPI) — Forty-seven high school bands will be present Oct. 18, 1969, for a parade and awards ceremony here.

The parade at 2 p.m. will be followed at 4 p.m. by an awards ceremony in tribute to 223 men of the 295th Ordinance Company.

About 123 of the men are on their way home to the Hastings area and will be Forbes Air Force Base in Kansas Tuesday to undergo a week of processing at Fort Riley, Kan. All will be brought to Hastings.

The company consists of units from Hastings, York and Grand Island. The troops are slated to arrive in Hastings within 10 days.

The group will remain in Hastings for three additional days of processing and for the awards ceremony on the 18th. Those not discharged will be sent to the 295th Headquarters at the Naval Ammo Depot near Hastings.

The Hastings Chamber of Commerce has invited the mayors of the three cities, four state senators, Maj. Gen. Lyle Welch and Rep. Dave Martin, and Sens. Roman Hruska and Carl Curtis.

Hastings College, sponsoring band day, timed the event to coincide with the parade and awards ceremony.

Kearney Students, Parents Meet With School Official

Kearney (AP) — Kearney school officials met Monday with students and parents as a followup to a boycott of classes by some junior high school students last Friday.

About 40 of the some 900 junior high students were involved in the walkout.

The protesting students chose seven of their group to attend the meeting. The parents of those students plus other parents and interested residents attended the two-hour session.

The major complaint by students appeared to involve one junior high instructor who allegedly has made derogatory remarks concerning south side residents in Kearney. Another complaint is that south side students have been subjected to unkind remarks from fellow students.

Dr. Harold G. Rowe, superintendent of schools, and Principal Al Bellinger told the group they had not talked to the instructor and would do so before taking a stand on the issue. Dr. Rowe did not name the instructor.

Commenting on the students' complaints, Dr. Rowe questioned if they were the real issue and termed it "just a trigger." He also commented that he believes the problem is community wide.

'Moratorium' Gets Support At NU

In a letter to the editor of The Daily Nebraskan published Monday, 103 University of Nebraska faculty members announced their support of a national "moratorium" on business-as-usual Oct. 15.

Labeling the announced troop withdrawals "token," the letter in the campus newspaper charged that "our country continues a bankrupt policy in pursuit of discredited goals."

The faculty members stated that "we have waited patiently for a new administration to accomplish the change that it promised. We have waited in vain. The time has come that we must again publicly display our feelings about this tragic war."

600 Campuses

The moratorium, slated for Oct. 15, will reportedly involve some 600 campuses throughout the nation, including the University of Nebraska.

An antiwar march from NU's Love Library to the Nebraska State Capitol steps will highlight moratorium activities at the university, according to members of NU's Moratorium Steering Committee.

Peace buttons and black armbands will be sold in the Nebraska Union on that day.

Strike Not Urged

The committee as a group does not recommend a student strike of classes, according to committee member Jim Evinger.

"If we did this, we would risk a reaction against a class boycott. This would distract attention from our real cause — stopping the war," Evinger said.

Dan Schitt, associate professor of physics at NU and one of the faculty organizers of the moratorium on the Nebraska campus, stressed the same point.

"We are not urging teachers to call off their classes. We do, as a group, urge them to spend their class periods discussing the war if it is pertinent to the subject matter of the class."

"I feel that in my physics class it is pertinent," he said.

The National Vietnam Moratorium Committee intends to follow up the first moratorium day with two days in November and three in December.

Frost, Freezing Temps Helpful To Most Crops

Frost and freezing temperatures over the weekend in central and western areas of Nebraska were helpful to the maturing of most crops, the Division of Agricultural Statistics reported Monday.

Only a few late-planted fields in these areas had not matured and crop damage was quite limited, the report said.

Corn in the state is now 95 per cent ripe, the division said, and a limited amount has been harvested for grain although the moisture level of the grain is still too high for safe storage. Some corn silage cutting continued during the week.

Sorghums were reported to have made favorable progress, with about 85 per cent of the crop matured. Harvesting of the sorghums is near normal for this date, at about 10 per cent, with most of the harvested crop requiring artificial drying before storage.

The division said the soybean harvest picked momentum at midweek as the beans became dry enough, with combining near normal at about 15 per cent. Maturity was reported lagging a little in the southeast but about 80 per cent complete in the state, with dry bean harvest in cleanup stages in the Panhandle and southwest.

Doctors who made house calls were scarce in the 19th century, too. There were few medically trained men, limited drug supplies, and distances to be traveled took longer on horseback.

Each family had its own selection of "cures" and only serious ailments rated the visit of the doctor. Teas brewed from sage, wormwood, catnip, or other herbs found in the woods or garden were the favorite remedies. Worms, snails, blood or cobwebs were used in some of the medicines. Mustard plasters and spring tonic of molasses and sulphur were suggested cures.

Gradually the homemade remedies were improved with the help of drugs furnished by the town apothecary. Some bottled cures such as the famous bitters were sold by peddlars.

Collectors of medical items have a large selection available. Old glass bottles, paper packets that held drugs, mortars and pestles, apothecary jars, boxes of all sorts, tools such as "bleeders," even advertisements can be found.

Q. A player piano is our next big purchase. We are interested in knowing when player pianos were introduced. How long were they popular? Is there a "best player piano?"

A. No one is sure who invented the player piano. Several men seem to have been working on the idea independently at the same time. A Frenchman patented a player piano that worked on pneumatic principles in 1863. A hand crank was turned that produced a vacuum that worked the "fingers" that played the keys.

Other inventions followed with a method of using perforated sheet music. A motor driven spool for the rolls of music, and other electric devices to power the piano were invented by the 1890s.

The "father of the player piano" business in America is probably William Tremaine. He marketed the Aeolian organ and the Aeolian self-playing piano by 1895.

The earliest player pianos only played 65 notes. This meant that many pieces had to be rearranged before they could be used on these machines. The first 88-note player piano roll was made in 1902. In 1910, the makers of player pianos agreed to make a standard size roll that would fit any piano.

Player pianos are still being made. Buy any machine that appeals to you. Be sure it uses a standard roll. You can still buy new rolls for an old or new player piano.

Another weekend has flown by, leaving Lincoln's suburban residents breathless. They are wondering if perhaps there is not some diabolical plot afoot which serves to make the period extending from Friday evening to Monday morning just as brief as possible. Although the weekends seem to get shorter and shorter, suburban inhabitants, however, still manage to cram every

Abby: catty talk

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: As a cat owner and unofficial pet consultant on the Jackson-Journal, I found your letter about the allurphic (cat-hating) mother-in-law very interesting.

You are right. The story about cats sucking babies' breaths is an old wives tale, left over from the days when cats were thought to be messengers of the devil and the familiar companions of witches.

You are misled about ringworm, however. I once contracted ringworm from a Siamese kitten. It's not a major threat, however, and is easily recognized by patchy skin and "bald spots." If a cat HAS ringworm, it can be transmitted to humans — especially children.

Ringworm is found in cats who have roamed and been in contact with other animals. A well-cared for stay-at-home cat as a rule does not have ringworm. Sincerely,

CAROLYN McELDOWNEY

DEAR ABBY: I hasten to tell you what I know about cats, and being a cat breeder, I know something.

Cats CAN — not necessarily DO, but CAN carry ringworm. Now, ringworm is not an internal parasite. It is a type of SKIN FUNGUS, annoying and unsightly, but easily cured. As a matter of fact, ANY warm-blooded animal can contract ringworm and transmit it to other animals and humans.

In warm, damp climates, we breeders look for this fungus every spring and take precautions to prevent it.

You are right. Cats DO NOT suck breath from a baby, but they should be kept out of a baby's crib for sanitation reasons.

I had cats before I had children and I certainly didn't get rid of the cats. Hope this helps.

MRS. C. M. Mc

conceivable type of activity into them—which is probably why, to some, the arrival of Monday signifies relief and a return to a semblance of normalcy.

Then by Tuesday morning, everyone has pretty much settled back into a less hectic routine—which lasts for approximately three and one-half days, or until the arrival of another weekend!

Assuming then that everyone has sufficiently recuperated from the most recent Friday-to-Sunday goings on, we'd like to take a look at just what did transpire.

Of course we just couldn't dismiss a Saturday in October without some mention of the Cornhusker football game and as is usually the case, many Lincoln residents followed their favorite team out of state for Saturday's gridiron contest.

By this time we're sure that everyone is aware of the outcome of that particular game, and included among those who were in Minneapolis to watch first-hand the Big Red defeat the Minnesota Golden Gophers were Lincoln Heights residents, Mr. and Mrs. Noel Chadd and Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Keller.

More football was on the agenda for the Chadds and the Kellers on Sunday when they attended the Minnesota Vikings-Green Bay Packers game.

Getting away from the subject of weekend happenings for a few moments, we understand that a class is presently being offered at the Belmont Community Center which should be of interest to the members of the very-much-younger generation. The course we are referring to is one in creative hand-crafts for preschool youngsters. The class meets on Thursday afternoons, and any Lincoln youngster is invited to attend.

Busy doing some weekends entertaining were Kimballcrest residents Mr. and Mrs. Houghton Furr, Jr. Mr. and Mrs. Furr were host and hostess at an informal open house which was held Saturday evening at their home. The guests of honor at the festivities were Mr. Furr's sister, Miss Lyn Furr; and Allen Fisch, both of Los Angeles, Calif.

During their stay in Lincoln, Miss Furr and Mr. Fisch were guests at the home of Miss Furr's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Houghton Furr, Sr. Miss Furr, who is a graduate of Lincoln Southeast High School, attended Smith College in Northampton, Mass., and is presently studying art at UCLA.

There is a new resident at the 3835 Sumner home of Mr. and Mrs. Gary Taylor Hansen, and this most recent addition to the Hansen family goes by the name of Miss Kimberly Rae Hansen. Miss Kimberly made her world debut on Friday, Sept. 26, and she has one brother, Jeffery Alan who is five and one-half years old.

Completing the young lady's family circle are her very proud grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Hansen, and Mr. and Mrs. Howard Reich. Incidentally, Mrs. Hansen is the former Miss Nancy Reich.

We want to be among the first to wish Miss Jennie Burianek, who will become a three-year-old tomorrow, a "happy birthday." Jennie is the daughter of Southwood residents Mr. and Mrs. Donald J. Burianek.

Opening lead — king of spades.

Let's say you're declarer at four hearts and West leads the king of spades. It would seem natural to win the spade, draw trumps, and finesse the jack of diamonds.

If the finesse succeeded you would have ten sure tricks, but if it lost you could be in trouble and go down if East shifted to the queen of clubs.

However, this would be the wrong way to play the hand. There is a much safer method of play, and, in fact, it is sure to bring home the marbles regardless of how the cards are divided.

You should win the spade lead with the ace, draw trumps, and cash the A-K of diamonds, deliberately avoiding the finesse. You then play the jack of spades from dummy, but instead of ruffing it, you discard the five of diamonds.

West finds himself on lead but is helpless. He cannot afford a spade continuation, which would give you a ruff and discard, so he is bound to lead a diamond or a club.

He cannot lead a diamond (even if he has one) without establishing a diamond for you in dummy, and he likewise cannot lead a club without making your king a trick. So, whatever the nature of his hand, West is bound to give you the contract once you adopt this method of play.

Situations like this are by no means uncommon. Before pinning your hopes on the favorable location of a particular card (such as the queen of diamonds or ace of clubs in the present case), you should look for a method of play that either reduces or completely eliminates the element of luck. Whenever possible, you leave nothing to chance.

Nebraska's First Lady Is Hostess

The role of hostess is by no means a new one for Nebraska's first lady, Mrs. Norbert Tiemann. But when a Governor's lady entertains a lady governor—that's news.

Mrs. Tiemann's early morning guest was Mrs. Melvin Davidson of Columbia, Mo. who makes no decisions of state, but she is the district governor of Mu Phi Epsilon, professional music sorority. Mrs. Davidson, a former Lincoln resident, arrived in Lincoln on Saturday to visit the two Mu Phi Epsilon chapters—Mu Gamma on the University of Nebraska campus, and Beta Pi chapter on the Nebraska Wesleyan campus.

Following the informal visit with Mrs. Davidson, Mrs. Tiemann greeted the members of the Lincoln Symphony Guild who held their first meeting of the 1969-70 season on Monday morning at the Governor's Mansion.

Alumnae Aid TRY

The scholarship fund for TRY (Training Retarded Youth) is $200 richer because of a check presented to the organization by the alumnae of Kappa Alpha Theta, who raised the money through various benefit projects.

The check was presented by Mrs. Richard Youngscap, alumnae philanthropy chairman, to the Rev. Carl Burkhardt, a representative for TRY. This is the third year the alumnae have assisted the organization.

Secretaries

The regular dinner and program of the Legal Secretaries of Lincoln will be held at 7 o'clock, Thursday evening at the Legionnaire Club.

Following the dinner, a talk on "Trial Techniques," will be given by M. J. Bruckner, attorney.

THOSE HORRID AGE SPOTS*

FADE THEM OUT

*Weathered brown spots on the surface of your hands and face tell the world you're getting old—perhaps before you really are. Fade them away with ESOTERICA, that medicated cream that breaks up masses of pigment on the skin, helps make hands look white and young again. Equally effective on the face, neck and arms. Not a cover-up. Acts in the skin—not on it. Fragrant, greaseless base for softening, lubricating skin as it clears up those blemishes. If you have these age-revealing brown spots, blotches, or if you want clearer, lighter skin, use ESOTERICA. At your favorite drug and toiletry counter. $2.00.

A Re-Evaluation

In a pre-season look at Big Eight football this writer forecast a finish with Oklahoma the champion easily, Nebraska, Missouri and Kansas State tying for second, Kansas fifth, Colorado sixth, Iowa State seventh and Oklahoma State eighth.

At the same time, we called Kansas State the most under-rated team in the league and Kansas the most over-rated and happenings of the first three weeks have done nothing to change those viewpoints.

Except that perhaps Kansas was even over-rated by this writer, who thought they were over-rated by other writers. Borrowing a prerogative usually reserved only for women, a little re-evaluating of the Big Eight chase may be in order before they begin fighting with each other this week.

The first conclusion we'd like to change was the one that Oklahoma was head and shoulders above everyone else.

The Sooners must still be picked to win, but not without some trouble from the likes of Missouri, Nebraska and Kansas State.

OU quarterback Jack Mildren appears to be everything he was supposed to be and it's not a matter of lowering our opinion of Oklahoma, but one of raising our sights on that other trio of Missouri, Nebraska and Kansas State.

Missouri Does It Again

Everyone agreed that Missouri had great backs, but there were a few of us who were skeptical about their replacing defensive line losses and replacing Roger Wehrli.

But the Tigers have done what they do every year. No matter how many great defensive players they lose, head coach Dan Devine and line coach Al Onofrio simply go to the woodpile and pull out some more great ones they've had stacked there.

The Tigers may be better than a second place tie with Nebraska and Kansas State.

Nebraska is far better than we had thought earlier, but even with their improvement, it's hard to place them any higher than a tie for second even if your heart wants to do so.

The thing that makes the Huskers a definite title threat, however, is that they are beginning to resemble those great Devaney teams of the past.

When the Huskers were winning eight and nine games a year and Big Eight titles, they were doing it with a balanced offensive attack and by making even broken plays come out right.

The Huskers have been an easy team to defend the past couple of years because they didn't have that balance between passing and running.

But the offensive line has developed pride and confidence, two vital ingredients for championship-caliber play. And they're going to keep defenses off balance all season.

Kansas State may be even better than we had thought and we had thought them to be darn good. So we'll stick with our original forecast of the top four—1. Oklahoma; 2. (tie) Missouri, Nebraska and Kansas State.

What To Do With KU

But it's the bottom four that has confused the issue. What do you do with Kansas, last year's co-champion which is discovering you have to have football players to have a good football team—you can't do it with track athletes.

With only a couple of exceptions, the Jayhawks only quality football players are those left over from the Jack Mitchell days, like Emery Hicks.

Kansas has lost to Texas Tech, a team that Oklahoma State beat. They barely beat Syracuse, a team that barely edged Iowa State.

Colorado has looked better than a sixth place team and Iowa State and Oklahoma State are looking better than seventh and eighth place teams.

Re-evaluating the second division, you've got to move the Buffs up and the Jayhawks down.

A second guess—5. Colorado; 6. (tie) Iowa State, Oklahoma State and Kansas.

The thing that likely will decide which rungs on the ladder Big Eight teams will wind up on is a point the late Walter Hagen made more than 50 years ago when he was being acclaimed as the world's greatest golfer after his 12 and 10 victory over Bobby Jones.

The Haig claimed the match showed only that "a champion could beat another champion on any given day if he was 'up' and the other wasn't."

Clinch 7-4 Victory On Garrett's Homer, Ryan's Relief

New York (AP) — The incredible New York Mets, baseball's rag tag clowns for seven long years, made it all the way to the top Monday by winning the National League pennant with a third straight playoff victory 7-4 over the stunned Atlanta Braves.

Wayne "Red" Garrett, an Atlanta farmhand drafted by the Mets for $25,000 last December, delivered the killing blow, a two-run homer in the fifth inning that put the Mets ahead for keeps. Garrett had hit only one homer all year and batted but .218. Nolan Ryan, the fireballing 22-year-old right-hander who commuted between the Mets and a Texas army camp all summer, bailed out starter Gary Gentry with a brilliant effort in the last seven innings.

A roaring standing-room crowd of 53,193 at Shea Stadium chanted "We want more" in the Mets' eighth and counted down each out in the ninth as Ryan closed strong.

When Garrett threw to Ed Kranepool to retire Tony Gonzalez for the final clinching out, thousands of youngsters swarmed onto the field, firecrackers thundered in the stands and the bases quickly disappeared. Instant banners proclaiming "Mets' Champs" sprouted out of nowhere.

Several hundred youngsters clustered in front of the Met dugout shouting "We're No. 1" and gesturing with their fists in the air. A special corps of policemen kept the frantic fans out of the dugout as torn paper spewed down from the stands and a mini "Woodstock Pop Festival" set in on the infield.

The club that never had finished better than ninth and then only reached that pinnacle twice in seven previous years, had won it all in the National League after making up 9½ games on the Chicago Cubs to win the East Division and then routing the Western champion Braves in three straight.

Manager Gil Hodges' amazing Mets now go on into the World Series starting Saturday afternoon in Baltimore.

But even a World Series victory will have a hard time topping this celebration. Some thought it was even wilder than the night they clinched the East title on Sept. 24.

Victory was sweet for the fans who were deprived of their two National League franchises when the Dodgers and Giants moved West to California in 1958. It took eight long years but the bubbling champagne was worth the effort.

The Mets, derided as Punch and Judy hitters who had to get by on their fine pitching, wound up with a .327 club batting average and scored 27 runs on 37 hits in the three games. On the other hand their three starting pitchers, Tom Seaver, Jerry Koosman and Gary Gentry, all were roughed up while the Braves scored 15 runs.

Gentry, trying to top his 23rd birthday celebration with a pennant, gave way to Ryan in the third inning trailing 2-0.

Hodges removed Gentry after Gonzalez singled. Hank Aaron doubled and Rico Carty had slammed a foul liner to left.

Aaron's two-run homer in the first had given Atlanta its 2-0 bulge.

Hodges made the big move, calling for Ryan, who took over with a 1-2 count on Carty and struck him out. After walking Orlando Cepeda intentionally to load the bases, Ryan struck out Cleto Boyer and got Bob Didier on a fly ball.

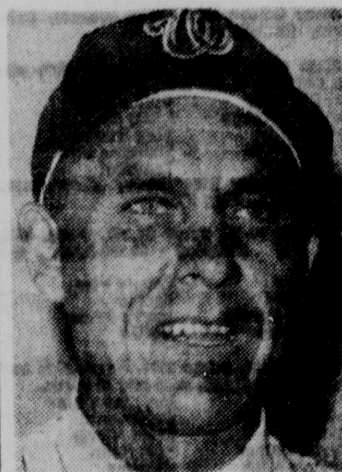

Young Ryan, warming to the task, allowed only three hits in his seven-inning winning stint, struck out seven and walked only two.

Cepeda's two-run homer, following a walk to Carty in the fifth, momentarily gave the Braves a lead but the slugger Mets were not to be denied. When the day was done they had 14 hits, including four doubles and homers by Tommie Agee and Ken Boswell, each of whom had three hits, and the winning blast by Garrett.

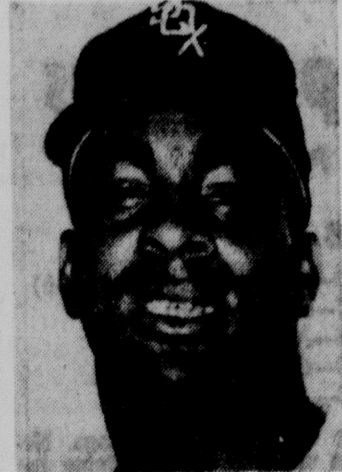

"The Mets deserved to win" said manager Luman Harris of the Braves. "I hope they go on to win the World Series."

Blair, Buford Lead Orioles Into Series

... BALTIMORE CRACKS 18 HITS IN 11-2 PLAYOFF CLINCHER

Minneapolis-St. Paul (AP) — Paul Blair and Don Buford cracked nine hits between them and the rampaging Baltimore Orioles charged into the 1969 World Series Monday, completing a three-game American League playoff sweep with an 11-2 romp over the Minnesota Twins.

The Orioles will open the series at home Saturday, facing the New York Mets, who also swept their National League playoff against the Atlanta Braves.

Monday's clincher was a complete opposite from the first two games of the series — both pitcher's duels which stretched into extra innings.

The Orioles rattled 18 hits around Metropolitan Stadium, eight of them for extra bases. Blair, who had five hits, drove in five runs, two of them on a 407-foot home run in the eighth inning and Ellie Hendricks drove in three runs with a pair of doubles.

Seven Minnesota pitchers took the pounding while Baltimore's Jim Palmer rode the heavy hitting to an easy victory. He scattered 10 hits — two of them run-scoring singles by Rich Reese.

The game started out as if the Twins might reverse Baltimore's winning trend. Buford and Blair opened with infield singles but Bob Miller, the Twins' starter, escaped without surrendering a run.

After Reese drove in a Minnesota run in the bottom of the first, the Orioles struck back in the second.

Brooks Robinson doubled for his seventh hit of the series and moved to third when right fielder Tony Oliva slipped and dropped Dave Johnson's easy fly for an error. Hendricks followed with a two-run double and then came home on Buford's two-out single.

Two innings later, the Orioles upped their lead to 5-1.

Mark Belanger opened with a triple and Buford walked with one out. Then both runners scored on Blair's double.

The "off and on" customers were welcomed back to the store Monday by Nebraska football coach Bob Devaney as the first full house of the season showed up for the weekly Extra Point Club Quarterback Luncheon.

"Welcome back," Devaney said before sitting down to eat, then added, "I'm not referring to you who were here last week. I'm referring to the off and on customers."

Devaney told them later, "We're not going down to Missouri this week to play them close. We're going down there to try to win," a statement that brought a rousing round of applause from the nearly 400 diners. Devaney again had praise for the Husker offense which is averaging 26 points per game.

"Off their performance Saturday, our offense is continuing to improve," he pointed out. "In checking films of last week's win over Texas A&M, we saw improvement in blocking both from the line and the backs."

"And in checking films of the Minnesota game, we saw further improvement in those areas."

"They have been giving us good pass protection Jerry Tagge was dropped just once Saturday and that's an indication of how well our offensive line is blocking on passes."

"Many times because of this, he had time to spot secondary receivers."

Devaney said he was pleased by the relief duty of halfback Jeff Hughes and fullback Bill Bomberger as well as the job done by Van Brownson who came in at quarterback in the fourth quarter.

"The big thing that was pleasing about Brownson was the way he drove the team downfield," Devaney said. "When your starting quarterback has had a good day like Jerry Tagge did it's natural for the replacement to want to show what he can do."

"It's natural for him to want to pass and run the ball himself, but Van didn't do this. He used his other backs and moved the team methodically downfield."

The Husker coach said he also was pleased with the defense, except "for getting hurt by Minnesota dive and dive option plays."

He pointed out that the Gophers had scored 35 and 26 points in two previous games and had it not been for a 99-yard pass interception, the Husker Black Shirts might have held Minnesota to only seven points.

Devaney admitted he did not know how good Minnesota is. "They are not strong defensively," he added, "But we've played teams with weaker defenses and haven't scored as much."

Turning his attention to Missouri, Devaney explained, "We're going from a rather mediocre defense to a team that has one of the best defenses in the country."

"A lot of years when we've played Missouri either Missouri or Nebraska has been the best defensive team in the nation. And this year both have showed some offensive punch."

SEE HOW THEY BLOCK... Husker line opens big hole for Jeff Kinney, above, then with help from Mike Green (34), they keep Gophers away from Jerry Tagge (14) for pass, right.

NU's Tagge Big Eight Back Of Week

... HUSKER QB'S 301 YARDS LED GOPHER ROUT, SET SCHOOL RECORD

Kansas City (AP)—Jerry Tagge has been playing musical chairs with another Nebraska sophomore to see who gets to play quarterback for the Cornhuskers. Saturday, the music stopped and Tagge got the chair.

The 6-foot-1, 200-pound yearling from Green Bay, Wis., staged the biggest one-man offensive show in Nebraska history in leading a 42-14 rout of Minnesota. For his performance he was picked Monday as the Big Eight Conference's Back-of-the-Week.

Tagge, who was expected to get the No. 1 job with the Huskers before the season opener, got hurt and had to give way to Van Brownson—the other Nebraska standout rookie quarterback. Then, Brownson got hurt and Tagge returned to duty.

Minnesota probably would rather have taken its chances with Brownson. Tagge riddled them with 15 pass completions in 23 attempts for 219 yards, including touchdown passes of 38 and 43 yards to Larry Frost, and added 82 yards running for a net day's work of 301 yards.

That is the sixth best offensive show in Big Eight history and the best a Cornhusker has ever done.

Tagge engineered five touchdown drives. In a 99-yard march, he connected on 5 of 6 passes for 81 yards including the 43-yard scoring strike to Frost.

Coach Bob Devaney called it "an outstanding, poised job for a sophomore," and added, "Jerry's judgment was outstanding, he selected his plays well, picked out his receivers and did his job."

Tagge edged Colorado's Bob Anderson for the honor on a split vote of the Big Eight panel. Anderson led the Buffs past Indiana, 30-7.

Anderson was switched from quarterback, where he had started 22 consecutive games for the Buffaloes, to tailback by coach Eddie Crowder last Wednesday.

Crowder installed sophomore Paul Arendt at quarterback because regular tailback Steve Engel still was ailing.

Anderson, who told Crowder, "You can play me at tackle if it will help us win," responded with 161 yards rushing on 30 carries and scored three times to run his season touchdown production to seven.

Also nominated for Big Eight back honors this week were Iowa State quarterback Obert Tisdale, Oklahoma State fullback Bub Deerinwater, Missouri defensive back Dennis Poppe, Kansas State defensive back Mike Kolich and Kansas tailback Ron Jessie.

—COACHES WORRIED—

Sweep Of Big Ten Awees Big 8 Brass

Kansas City (AP)—Missouri's Dan Devine and Nebraska's Bob Devaney stood in long distance awe of each other's football teams Monday, while the entire Big Eight sounded a little awe by the events of last Saturday.

A four-game sweep against the Big Ten, including Missouri's 40-17 rout of Michigan and Nebraska's 42-14 romp past Minnesota, left conference officials a little heady and coaches worrying about how they might be able to split even in their league games.

"That score had to scare you," Devaney said of Missouri's blitz of Michigan. "We think Missouri is a real sound team, a team that won't beat itself."

"They have big backs. They can run at you, and Terry McMillan has improved his passing so they are no longer just a running team. The toughest job anybody has year-in and year-out is to move the ball against Missouri, and it is no different this year."

Devine countered by saying, "Nebraska plays a five-man defensive line because you could not get six guys that big onto the field at one time. They dig in and come at you."

Devine also compared Jerry Tagge, Nebraska's sophomore quarterback who ruffled Minnesota for 301 yards, with Oklahoma's Jack Miltren and Colorado's Bobby Anderson. "He has to be one of the better sophomores to come along," Devine said.

Nebraska and Missouri launch their Big Eight seasons Saturday at Columbia, Mo.

Vince Gibson of Kansas State and Pepper Rodgers of Kansas, both losers Saturday but on a different scale, also traded comments by telephone on their Big Eight opener against each other Saturday at Lawrence, Kan.

Gibson, whose team lost 17-14 to second-ranked Penn State, said of Kansas: "They've got good material and we know they're going to come after us. Their personnel is as good as anybody we'll play."

Countered Rodgers, "Kansas State has the big play players. It looks like for us to have a chance we'll have to shut them out, and I don't see how we can do that."

Kansas lost 16-7 to New Mexico, a team which had lost 21 straight.

Also talking to the weekly Big Eight briefing Monday were Chuck Fairbanks of Oklahoma and Eddie Crowder of Colorado.

Fairbanks said Texas, the Sooners opponent Saturday in Dallas in a national television game, is the most advanced for this stage of the season he has ever seen the Longhorns. "The sheer strength of their running game impresses you," he said.

Crowder said the shift of Anderson from quarterback to tailback will depend on whether regular tailback Steve Engel comes back. "We'll probably change formations and go to a more flexible attack," Crowder added. His Buffs play at Iowa State Saturday.

Missouri

Columbia, Mo. (AP)—Seven Missouri football players did not work out Monday because of injuries, but only two have been definitely ruled out of this week's game against Nebraska.

Coach Dan Devine said those who won't play are Joe Hauptman, starting defensive end who suffered stretched knee ligaments in the Michigan game, and Pete Buha, reserve defensive back who has a sprained foot.

The status of defensive tackle John Dowan is questionable. He has a hyper-extended elbow.

Expected to recover in two or three days are defensive end Mike Bennett, defensive guards Adam Vidal and Sam Adams, and offensive guard Tim Crnk.

Returning to action Monday was Rocky Wallace defensive tackle who has missed all three games this fall because of a pulled thigh muscle. He is expected to see action against the Huskers.

Very little change in teams but a considerable amount of shuffling in the order highlights the new ratings for Class B and C Nebraska high school football this week.

Lincoln Pius X, with what on the surface appears to be a mediocre 1-1-1 record, continues to reign in Class B, while Pender retains its No. 1 spot at the top of the Class C ladder.

The top six places in Class B stay the same as the previous week, despite the fact that two of the six suffered losses.

Coach Vince Aldrich's Pius Thunderbolts fought Class A rated Lincoln Northeast (No. 8) to a 0-0 standstill for all but the last minute and a half of their game before falling 6-0.

The Bolts have tangled with Class A foes in all three of their games, with a tie against Lincoln High, rated No. 5 in Class A, and a win over Beatrice, which hasn't lost since, constituting the other two.

Pius faces its third straight Class A ranked opponent this weekend in No. 9 Fremont.

Only one change occurred in Class B, with Albion joining the group. Nebraska City fell from favor after losing to Crete. That result allowed Wahoo, Minden and Central City to each advance a notch.

Class C also has but one new team. Benkelman, after dumping previously rated Wauneta, takes the No. 10 slot away from West Point.

Hastings St. Cecilia and Fremont Bergan, No. 2 and 3, and Hebron, No. 7, a week ago, all lost to highly regarded Class B teams and dropped in the standings.

Scribner, Milford and O'Neill St. Mary all benefit from the action. Ravenna also advances a couple of spots to claim the No. 6 position.

The latter club will play Gibbon this Friday, a team which will serve as a comparative for further shifts which are sure to come.

Pentagon Reviews Defenses Cuban Jet Easily Penetrated

The New York Times

Washington — The Defense Department began a hasty review of air defense procedures Monday after the unchallenged flight of an armed Cuban MIG17 jet fighter to the Florida air base where President Nixon's plane was being fueled for his return to the capital.

The MIG was picked up on American radar only once during its 200-mile flight from a base in Cuba. And even then, it was not clearly identified. "It might have been a whooping crane or a flight of geese," said one embarrassed Air Force official. In any case, no United States jets were scrambled to check out the sifting.

The single radar reading, according to the Pentagon, came at 12:10 p.m. Sunday. The first clue that a Cuban plane was responsible came nine minutes later when the MIG appeared over the tower at Homestead Air Force Base and was given permission to land, in the form of a green light flashed from the tower. The MIG landed smoothly, not far from Air Force One, the President's plane.

Picket Out Of Position

The Air Force late Monday was trying to find out why an EC121 radar picket plane that was supposed to have been off the Florida coast at the time apparently was not in position. The EC121 is equipped to scan both farther and lower than land-based radar.

The MIG pilot, identified as Lt. Eduard Guerra Jimenez, told American authorities that he had flown from Cienfuegos air base in Santa Clara, Cuba, toward Florida at an altitude of 30 to 40 feet, beneath the view of both Cuban and American ground radars.

Only once did he pop up to get his bearings, at a point about 65 miles south of Homestead. He then immediately dived, and headed straight for the Air Force base which houses both jet fighters and long-range strategic bombers.

Sighting Too Short

Pentagon sources said that the single radar blip was not enough to determine whether a plane was involved and, if so, its direction and speed. When the radar antenna came around for a second look, the object had disappeared.

There are many such sightings from birds and atmospheric phenomena all the time, Air Force sources said.

The MIG carried a 37mm cannon with 40 rounds of ammunition and two 23mm cannon with 80 rounds. The pilot had no hostile thoughts in mind, however, since he immediately asked for, and was quickly granted, political asylum.

But the ease with which a Cuban air force pilot could penetrate American air defenses, apparently using tactics taught to him in Cuba, raised the question of whether a large number of bombers might accomplish the same kind of penetration.

The hasty review is aimed at finding out whether the defense is as porous as it appeared Sunday, or whether the MIG's getting through was a fluke.

Imprisoned Green Beret Out 'On Bail'

Washington (AP) — A Green Beret captain, sentenced to 24 years in prison for the murder of a Cambodian he suspected of being a double agent in Vietnam, was released from military prison "on bail" Monday.

Capt. John J. McCarthy, of Phoenix, Ariz., was convicted by a court-martial in Long Binh, Vietnam, in January 1968 for the murder of Inchin Hai Lam, a Cambodian who had been working for the Green Berets.

Since then he has been confined at the disciplinary barracks at Ft. Leavenworth, Kan. He was released pending final consideration of his appeal to the Army's Military Review Court.

McCarthy, 26, flew home to Phoenix on what he said was a 30-day leave. He said he has been reassigned to Ft. Huachuca, Ariz.

The captain was released under a provision of the military justice act giving Maj. Gen. John H. Hay Jr., the commanding general at Ft. Leavenworth, the authority to grant deferments to prisoners under his jurisdiction. The provision, likened to bail, became effective Aug. 1 this year.

McCarthy, in his appeal, said he was "suddenly thrust into the world of spies and double agents without the benefit of special training."

He denied shooting Lam, although he said he had reasons to suspect the man's loyalty.

In certain parts of the country where tornadoes are prevalent, many tornado-watchers are convinced that the ideal home warning system has been found. Ninety-five percent of American families, in fact, already have this tornado-warning system in their own homes, ready to use. It is the family TV set. Experiments have already been made and the "tuning in" of a tornado in progress will work with any television set, color or black-and-white, with indoor or outdoor antenna, or connected to a cable (CATV) system.

Charter Denial Challenged By The Omaha State Bank

The Omaha State Bank Monday asked the Lancaster District Court to reverse an order of the Nebraska Banking Department denying the bank's application for a charter in the Bel-Air Plaza Shopping Center in Omaha.

The bank contends that the order denying its application was "erroneous" and that its rights were "prejudiced" because the decision was the result of "unlawful proceedings, errors of law, unsupported by competent, material and substantial evidence and was arbitrary and capricious."

The application for a bank charter was filed, along with articles of incorporation, on June 6. The charter application proposed that the bank be allowed to operate in the Bel-Air Plaza Shopping Center (at 12100 West Center Road) in West Omaha.

"The area sought to be served is the fastest growing and most affluent area in Omaha," the suit contended.

"The Bel-Air Shopping Center is a busy, heavily traveled shopping area with more than 5,800 cars entering the area in a 12-hour day," the suit said.

Congressional Cries For Peace Continue

Washington (AP) — Senate Republican leader Hugh Scott — speaking against a backdrop of continuing congressional clamor against the Vietnam war — predicted Monday a breakthrough may come in the next two to three months.

At about the same time a bipartisan group of House members voiced approval of a resolution supporting withdrawal of U.S. troops from Vietnam "at the earliest possible date."

And still other members of Congress urged support for a planned Oct. 15 demonstration against continued U.S. participation in the fighting.

Cultural Pact Signed

Moscow (UPI) — A Soviet-Italian cultural agreement providing for an annual exchange of 15 scholars from each country was signed.

Meanwhile, Rep. James Hastings, R-N.Y., said more than 90 House members have agreed to join in introducing this resolution:

"It is the sense of the House of Representatives that the substantial reductions in United States ground-combat forces in Vietnam already directed are in the national interest and that the President be supported in his expressed determination to withdraw our remaining such forces at the earliest possible date."

Hastings said he believes a specific timetable would handicap President Nixon in negotiations.

Rep. Paul Findley, R-Ill., said the resolution so far has the support of 64 House Republicans and 44 Democrats.

WINDSOR Supreme CANADIAN Whisky

Imported

Elegant tradition:
The smoothest whisky
ever to come out of Canada!

Tonight serve Windsor Canadian: the remarkable, sippin'-smooth Canadian that's already changing thousands of Americans' ideas on the whisky to serve.

Now compare Windsor! Pour two drinks — highballs or over ice — one with your usual, one with Windsor Canadian. Notice the superior smoothness and the flavor of Windsor.

That's because no other custom-distilled whisky shares these three extraordinary features:

1. Only Windsor Canadian is made from choicest northern prairie grains, bursting with fresh flavor.
2. Only Windsor Canadian is born of icy mountain glacial water drawn pure and clear from underground streams.

3. Only Windsor Canadian is aged in the incredibly dry air of Canada's Rockies. Where, nearly a mile high, it gentles to sippin'-smooth perfection.

Yet it costs no more than leading domestic whiskies, because we import Windsor Canadian, then bottle it here. Thus saving on duties and other charges. Compare the price and the smoothness of Windsor. Once you do, you'll never settle for less or pay more. That's tradition for you!

Here is a practical little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is a 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add three. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.
